"Jafsie's" Story At Hauptmann Trial Completed

Many Questions Asked of Aged Bronx Educator By Defence Counsel, Who Says Two Women Who Will Testify About Lindbergh Kidnap Discussion Will Be Very Important

Col. H. Breckinridge Gives Testimony

Associated Press

Flemington, N.J., Jan. 10.—Hostile, grilling cross-examination of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, which failed in an attempt to show the Lindbergh kidnaping was the work of a gang, ended unexpectedly to-day as court began its afternoon session.

The examination, which lasted from 2.33 yesterday afternoon until the noon recess to-day, failed to shake the elderly Bronx school teacher on any essential detail of his story that Bruno Richard Hauptmann was the mysterious "John" who negotiated and collected the futile Lindbergh ransom of $50,000.

At the beginning of the afternoon session the prosecution took "Jafsie" and required only twenty-three minutes to clear up the loose ends of his testimony.

ATTORNEY TESTIFIES

Col. Henry Breckinridge, personal attorney and friend of Col. C. A. Lindbergh, who figured in the many futile searches for the baby, followed Dr. Condon on the stand and his testimony was used immediately by the prosecution to clear up an official-looking document that one of the aureate notes had not been produced by the state.

Col. Breckinridge also testified no reward had been given "Jafsie" for his work, nor had he asked for any.

Col. Breckinridge was excused after forty-five minutes.

PLANE CHANGED

Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defence staff which is fighting desperately to have Hauptmann from the electric chair as the kidnapper and murderer of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., had announced previously he expected to keep "Jafsie" on the stand for at least a day and a half.

Some time during the noon recess he seemed to confident himself with what influence had already been drawn from his questions, and with the production of two mystery women to confront "Jafsie" while he was on the stand.

Reilly brought one of the women into court. She was Mrs. Hermina Knorr, who lives on a farm near Hopewell, N.J. The other he merely mentioned as "Mrs. Busch."

DISCUSSED REAL ESTATE

Dr. Condon readily recognized Mrs. Knorr as a woman who had gone to his home in the Bronx with another to discuss real estate transactions. The other woman, Reilly said, was Mrs. Busch.

The attorney, mysterious about the matter, told reporters only that "Mrs. Knorr is a very important witness

CHANGES SEEN BY BANK HEAD

M. W. Wilson, President of Royal, Speaks of Economic Adjustments

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 10.—Possibility the capitalistic system might need changes to escape major depressions was noted by M. W. Wilson, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, in his address to-day to the annual meeting of shareholders.

"The capitalistic system has been the result of a process of evolution," he said, "and as such has been the subject of modifications from time to time to meet changing conditions.

"I would be the last to suggest that further modifications may not be required and changes may be a necessity if we are to be rid of the evils of major depressions."

In the past, Mr. Wilson said, the difficulties confronted were as the result of shortages. Now the trouble had to do with distribution of an increasing surplus.

"When people in other countries cut down their consumption of wheat, Canadian farmers must, perforce, do with less rubber and coffee," he said.

"Increasing attention must be given to measures which will provide for a freer and more even flow in the exchange of goods and services."

SHOULD BE STUDIED

In so far as the New Deal in the United States, or economic experiments in other countries, might provide a workable answer to the problem, Canada should profit by the solution.

"Social and economic experiments which fail, however, are usually costly," he warned, "and it is prudent and wise to 'make haste slowly' in changing fundamental principles of the existing system."

As to the future outlook, the president pointed to a distinct upward trend in business activity over the last eighteen months. Improvement had been general in practically all branches of agriculture, industry, mining and trade.

S. G. Dobson, general manager, reviewed the annual report and balance sheet, pointing to an increase of $60,000,000 in total deposits by the public as perhaps the most gratifying feature.

SCHOONER ASKS FOR ASSISTANCE

Associated Press

Newport, R.I., Jan. 10.—The United States coastguard cutter Argo was ordered to-day to proceed to the assistance of the disabled fishing schooner Fieldwood in Vineyard Sound after the vessel had reported her rudder Windsor, N.S., was reported near was disabled.

Bill To End No Par Value Shares Is Bennett's Plan

Premier Promises Legislation at Coming Session to Deal With Stock Watering

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—Amendments to the Companies Act, particularly to abolish the right to issue shares of no par value, and generally to cope with "stock watering" evils, were the only definite announcement of new legislation contained in the fourth of Premier Bennett's addresses, broadcast from here yesterday evening.

Further details of his programme would have to wait until a later date, Mr. Bennett said, because his plans were not complete.

The next address of the series will turn to other phases of the political picture. It will be given Friday evening, and the final address will be delivered in Montreal next Tuesday evening, when Mr. Bennett will be guest of honor at a reception given by the Young Conservative Association.

CONSTITUTIONAL OBSTACLES

It was understood earlier that Mr. Bennett would deal in one of his addresses with constitutional barriers

Winnipeg Firemen Freed of Blame

Winnipeg, Jan. 10.—Charges of inefficiency on the part of the Winnipeg fire department in fighting a fire at the Lowrie Wagon and Carriage Works here November 19 were not substantiated, a special investigation commission appointed by the city council has found.

Chief A. Bruhlen was upheld for not attending the fire as he was not required to attend first alarm fires outside the downtown district or hospital zones.

FINED; LOSES RIGHT TO DRIVE AUTOS

LORD EDWARD MONTAGU

Canadian Press

London, Jan. 10. — Convicted of "dangerous driving," Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester, to-day was fined the equivalent of $150, ordered to pay another $60 costs, and disqualified from driving a motor car for the next two years.

Lord Montagu appeared in the West London police court to answer a summons issued last September. Police testified he was driving a sports car at Hammersmith on September 30, which knocked down and fatally injured a woman who was crossing the road.

A police witness, asked how fast the car was going, replied: "About the speed of an express train."

Lord Montagu, who is twenty-eight years of age, and at whose christening the late King Edward was a sponsor, spent some years on a ranch near Edmonton, Alberta.

Lord Montagu is well known in Victoria and elsewhere on Vancouver Island.

HAVANA DOCTORS DECLARE STRIKE

Associated Press

Havana, Jan. 10.—About 200 physicians attached to the emergency and municipal hospitals of Havana went on strike to-day.

All the institutions thus left without their regular staffs retained small groups of doctors, however, to treat cases demanding urgent attention.

Nurses and hospital employees were expected to swell the strikers' ranks.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR PASSES

Rev. T. W. Gladstone Dies in Vancouver; Formerly of Church of Our Lord

Rev. Thos. W. Gladstone, for nearly thirty years a resident of Victoria and former pastor of the Church of Our Lord, Reformed Episcopal, passed away yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thos. Fyles in Vancouver.

Funeral services will be held from St. George's Church, Vancouver, on Saturday afternoon and interment will be in Ocean View Cemetery.

Mr. Gladstone was born in Lancashire, England, eighty-two years ago. As a young man he was a Y.M.C.A. secretary, in which capacity he preached in every county in England but one. He was later ordained to the Reformed Episcopal ministry, and occupied the pulpit of a church at Bodiet, Lancs., before going to Ottawa to fill an incumbency.

The climate of the east did not agree with Mrs. Gladstone's health and they came to Victoria about thirty years ago, Mr. Gladstone being appointed assistant rector of the Church of Our Lord under the late Bishop Cridge. On the retirement of the bishop he was made rector. He was known on the coast as a fine preacher and a man of saintly character.

In 1914 Mr. Gladstone resigned from the leadership and went south in the interests of his health, when Rev. A. de B. Owen succeeded him. After six months in the south, Mr. Gladstone returned to Victoria with his health greatly improved, and shortly afterwards was offered the incumbency of the Reformed Episcopal Church at Newburgh, New York.

After several years there he retired from the active ministry and returned to Victoria and was made pastor emeritus of the Church of Our Lord. He resided here until three years ago when he went to Vancouver to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Fyles. Mrs. Gladstone predeceased him here some years ago.

House At Second Session To Hear How Finances of Province Are Recovering

Budget Improvement Will Be One of Highlights For Assembly Next Month; Speaker Prepares For Opening

BEER AND WINE MOVE EXPECTED

Wage Laws, Road Programme, Fraser River Bridges, Health and Municipal Refunding to Be Discussed

British Columbia's Eighteenth Legislature will open its second session here on February 12, it was officially announced at the Parliament Buildings this morning.

Preparations for the gathering are now under way, with Mr. Speaker H. G. Perry installed in his office making arrangements for the sessional staff and the opening ceremony, with its colorful tradition and pomp.

While it is expected the coming session will be somewhat overshadowed in public interest by coming events in the federal capital, legislation of considerable importance to the province as a whole is on the horizon.

Outstanding, no doubt, will be the budget to be presented by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance. In its first year, the government has devoted much of its time to rehabilitation of provincial finances. The object, according to Mr. Hart, is to straighten out the tangled financial mess assumed when the government entered office in preparation for the inauguration of new policies embodied in its platform.

BALANCED BUDGET

Mr. Hart expects, at the present time, to offer the House a budget balanced on operating account without adding a stiff taxation. This does not include provision for either sinking funds or unemployment relief costs, but will meet the ordinary expenditures of government.

Financial questions will be featured in other directions as well. The House will be asked to ratify at least three refunding schemes for municipalities which proposed to reduce or postpone interest payments, and quite likely Mr. Hart will have something to say about progress of the province's own refunding scheme.

Just what will be done about the proposed state health insurance measure is open to doubt at the present moment, but the House will surely hear of some government suggestions for improving public health services.

The argument for beer and wine in restaurants and hotels which was much talked about but never reached the floor of the House last year, will certainly be raised again with, some observers think, more chance of success.

Amendments to the B.C. Superannuation Act to place the fund on a sound basis with a different system of contributions and benefits are anticipated following a close study of this situation during the last year.

Agreements reached between the government and two companies which seek to bridge the Fraser River at New Westminster and Ladner will be disclosed to the House with full details, and are expected to prompt lengthy discussion.

A new road programme for the province to provide hard surfacing for some of the more frequented highways is contemplated by the Minister of Public Works.

New wage legislation will bring boys under eighteen within the scope of the Board of Industrial Relations, and will also tighten the operation of the present law.

A new Metalliferous Mines Regulation Act in line with modern mining development is another piece of forward legislation promised.

HEAR OF VISIT TO AL CAPONE

Liquor Case Before Appeal Court Justices; Details Related

Just what was it like to visit Al Capone in his armored office in Chicago before United States federal officers dethroned him as liquor czar, by getting him sentenced to a penitentiary term?

Justices of the British Columbia Court of Appeal learned the answer to-day as they went into the second day's hearing of the case of Sam Eastman, liquor importer of St. Louis, Mo., for $13,000 from the Pacific Forwarding Company of Vancouver, B.C.

The money Mr. Eastman claims is what he said he paid for the delivery from the Vancouver company of 350 cases of "good and merchantable" Bourbon whisky, which, when it arrived in St. Louis was found to be "musty," and so had he had to return it, asking for his money back, from Harry Sohal, who as agent for the Pacific Forwarding Company had arranged the deal while in Agua Caliente, Mexico. The "musty" goods, according to the evidence presented to the court, was shipped back to Lee Woods of Seattle; Mr. Eastman claims he has not yet received back his money.

The legal argument in the appeal revolves largely around the contractual relation between the Buffalo and Mr. Sohal, who claimed to be their agent, and acted on instructions from them.

DETAILS BROUGHT OUT

When Marie Gustin, counsel for Mr. Eastman, to-day continued his review of the evidence taken before Chief Justice Morrison of the Supreme Court, details of how the rum-running deals were arranged were brought out, including the free use of aliases by those in the business.

"Their ingenuity, it seems to me, ought to be exhausted," said Mr. Justice McPhillips. "It just shows what enormity it is to have cases like

The four lads are companions and it is expected they are together. Their parents, however, are anxious to hear from them and have requested police assistance.

Combines Registrar's Reports Are Not For Business Inquiry

Federal Investigating Commission Told By Labor Minister Act Does Not Provide For Publicity on Reports F. A. McGregor Submitted on Gasoline, Coal, Radio Tubes, Rubber Footwear and Fruit Baskets

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—Minister of Labor W. A. Gordon to-day declined to make available to the royal commission on mass buying the reports of F. A. McGregor, registrar of combines, on gasoline, coal, radio tubes, rubber footwear and fruit baskets.

Some weeks ago the Liberal members of the commission asked reports be produced.

The communication from the minister to the commission, read into the record to-day, declared that due to the confidential character of the reports in question, and having regard to the fact they had been made by the registrar and not by a commissioner appointed under the act, he was precluded from making them public. The only provision in the statute which referred to publicity being given to reports of investigators covered only such reports as were made by commissioners.

"I do not find upon careful examination of the act that it contains any authority for the publication of a report made by the registrar," wrote Mr. Gordon.

In view of that the minister, who had sought, and was supported by, an opinion from the Department of Justice, suggested the commission secure its own evidence on the matters in question "from the parties having knowledge of the facts."

FARM IMPLEMENTS

Canadian farmers "have a strong case" when the charge implement prices have not fallen as far as they should during the depression, Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Trade Minister, said before the royal commission on mass buying to-day.

The former cabinet minister agreed with Walter Gordon, Toronto auditor, that implement manufacturers main-

Restoration Of Pay Discussed

Federal Finance Minister Tells Civil Servants Revenue Will Decide

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—Representatives of the various organizations of civil servants from coast to coast received today from Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes an assurance the government would give every consideration to their request for restoration of the 10 per cent salary deductions now in effect three years. But full restoration would depend on revenues and a balanced budget, the minister said.

Spokesmen for the delegation expressed themselves as hopeful the conversations with respect to salaries, statutory increases, promotions and superannuations would receive favorable consideration.

New Deal Soon In Armaments Seen

CANDIDATES' VIEWS ON PEACE ASKED

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—A plan of action to be participated in by voters across Canada, whereby the view of candidates for Parliament in the forthcoming federal election, on peace organization, may be ascertained and recorded, has been set in operation by the League of Nations Society.

Under the scheme discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the society yesterday, voters who believe in a policy of peace will ask their members of Parliament or candidates to state their views on the matter.

Canadian Press

London Herald Says France Asking Britain's Support For Security Plan Which Would Include Germany

London, Jan. 10.—"Hastily from Geneva, M. Laval (French Foreign Minister) is coming to London to get a pledge of full support from Great Britain," said The London Daily Herald, Labor, to-day, dealing with the new Franco-Italian pacts. "He would offer to Germany a square deal on armaments involving release from the hated restrictions of the Versailles Treaty, and the fullest assurance that in every way she will be treated as a great power with full equality of status."

"Behind the offer," The Herald continued, "would be no threat, but a pointed knowledge that Germany must choose between two courses—either she can negotiate an agreement on lines suggested or, if she refuses, must accept a situation of complete isolation in the midst of a security system which would provide an effective barrier against any policy of adventure. She must, in short, either enjoin the hand or be regarded and treated as a rogue elephant."

ROAD OPEN

The London Times interpreted the French and Italian attitude in a less radical light but, at the same time, inferred the road to Geneva and new discussion of armaments might be left open if Germany were again to seek to co-operate with the rest of Europe.

FIFTEEN OF CREW PERISH

British Trawler Founders on Bar Near Humber River; Three Men Saved

Hull, Eng., Jan. 10. — The grey waters of the North Sea held fast the trawler Edgar Wallace and the bodies of fifteen of her crew of eighteen. Groping her way homeward yesterday evening from the fishing banks through thick fog, the trawler struck a sand bar and sank.

Two ships stood by to effect rescue, but only three survivors were picked up. The others were apparently trapped below the deck or jumped overboard and perished in the dark waters.

One survivor, Clarence Wilson, who clung for an hour to a piece of wreckage before he was rescued, said the Edgar Wallace struck a sand bar as she neared the mouth of the Humber River, inbound with a catch of fish. She freed herself, only to strike another. The trawler, of 288 tons, heeled over and sank rapidly.

The cries for help of the crew were heard by a member of the crew of the Gaula, which went to succor the Edgar Wallace. The William Cobb also located boats.

Pre-natal Relief Grant For Mothers

Government to Assist Women on Relief Who Are Expecting Children; Allowance Will Be $5 a Month For Four Months

Special assistance will be given by the provincial government to expectant mothers who are dependent on relief, it was announced this morning by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor.

An allowance of $5 a month for the four months prior to the birth of her child will be made to each mother, with the total not to exceed $25. She will be required to furnish a doctor's certificate showing the approximate date birth is expected.

"The government will assume full cost of the extra allowance, regardless of where the costs are in municipalities or unorganized territories."

Mr. Pearson stressed the fact that the grant was in no sense to be considered a maternity allowance. It was made with the sole object of providing extra nourishment for expectant mothers. It was not expected to cover hospital or medical services, which would already be obtained where essential.

PROGRESSIVE DELEGATION

The announcement to-day came as the first concrete result of the recent

GERMANY DECLINES LEAGUE INVITATION

Berlin Rejects British Suggestion It Send Representative to Geneva to Receive Saar Plebiscite Decision

Associated Press

Berlin, Jan. 10. — Germany today declined the invitation of Great Britain to send a representative to Geneva for the League of Nations' meeting next week following the Saar basin territory plebiscite.

The invitation was delivered to the German Foreign Office to-day by Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador, on instructions from London.

Dispatches from London said Britain was moving completely behind the scenes to have Germany represented.

Although Germany gave notice of her resignation from the League of Nations and the World Disarmament Conference in October, 1933, this will not come into effect until next October. She is still a member of the League and is entitled to sit on the League Council without the formality of making application for readmission. On the contrary, she may at any time withdraw her notice of resignation.

TO ADVANTAGE OF ALL

The British move was designed rather to keep Germany represented when the Saar vote was disposed then to raise the question of Germany's absolute return to the League. It is the League Council which in accordance with the wishes of the Saar inhabitants as expressed in Sunday's voting, will decide the who must be kept from contact with the press."

The only reference to the women in court testimony was when Reilly asked Dr. Condon if he had not shown them letters and told them they were in the handwriting of the kidnappers.

Dr. Condon disclaimed any memory of such incident.

SEALED LETTER

The first point which Attorney-General David T. Wilentz sought to clear up after getting "Jafsie" back as a witness this afternoon was his contradictory testimony, given under cross-examination, about the sealed letter which he received for Col. Lindbergh from the kidnapper. Dr. Condon had said he did not break the seal, yet he went on to tell how he described the symbols in the letter to Col. Lindbergh over the telephone.

He told Wilentz he had been confused and that his testimony was in error.

DENIES ASSERTION

During cross-examination by Counsel Reilly to-day Dr. Condon, who yesterday identified Hauptmann as the mysterious "John" of the Lindbergh ransom, did not remember ever telling anybody that he believed a gang had kidnapped the baby, and he denied the attorney's assertion he had told a newspaperman the baby's body had been brought back to the spot where it was found in the woods a few miles from the Hopewell home of the Lindberghs.

Reilly brought up his lie by asking him why he had made no attempt to have a bus driver run down the man he saw on a street in the Williamsburg section of New York in August, 1934, a man he said he recognized as "John," identified by him as Hauptmann. "Jafsie" was on a bus at the time.

"Did you call out to the chauffeur, 'Get that man'?" asked counsel.

"No, it was none of my business," Dr. Condon replied.

QUIETER TO-DAY

Though "Jafsie" to-day appeared without the flashing fire of yesterday, he nevertheless gave back to his cross-examiner in the manner that he received—and the essentials of his testimony, even minor details, remained as they were.

The manners of the attorney and witness started politely, each seeming to respect the other's prowess exhibited in yesterday's verbal jousting.

"I will try not to bother you today," Dr. Condon told the man he calls "the Bull of Brooklyn."

"That is all right, doctor," politely returned the "Bull."

SWINGS ARM

Among the scenes of the day was Reilly swinging an arm, as a compass, to indicate direction, and "Jafsie" shouting: "More, more, there! Whoa!"

Then another time, when "Jafsie" was rediscribing how "John" had climbed a cemetery gate "Turner fashion," he said, "you can always tell a palooka,—"

"A what?" the attorney wanted to know.

"I don't know the meaning of the 'They call it a 'palooka' if he does not act with grace."

START OF SESSION

To-day's session of the trial began at 10.04 a.m.

Hauptmann was the first principal of the court drama to appear. His face seemed even paler than usual. There was a drawn, tired look on his countenance as if he had not slept well.

Mrs. Hauptmann held her regular morning conversation with the prisoner.

Chief Defence Counsel Reilly and his legal associates, C. Lloyd Fisher, Frederick A. Pope and Egbert Rosecrans, were conferring at the defence table as the state legal staff headed by Attorney-General David T. Wilentz arrived.

A moment later "Jafsie," accompanied by Al Reich, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, arrived.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, Col. Lindbergh's friend and legal adviser, was with the group.

Dr. Condon again taking his place on the witness stand, began to describe his trip to the point beyond the Jerome Avenue subway station, where he found the ransom note under a boulder.

"Well," the heavy-headed educationist began: "I asked Mr. Alfred J Reich if he wanted to drive there with me."

Q. Where did you stop?

A. In front of the frankfurter stand described in the letter with symbols.

Q. Did you see anyone around there?

SAW MOTORCAR

A. I saw in this southerly direction—I saw an auto and it seemed someone was in it.

Reilly asked how many persons he noticed in the car.

"I saw only one," said "Jafsie," adding the man in the car had his head out of the window.

Dr. Condon also related "there was another auto with a canvas cover, a country auto, I would say, which was parking nearby."

Q. Did you take their license numbers?

A. No, sir.

Q. I thought you were investigating carefully.

A. The automobile didn't affect me at all. I was there to get the letter, and I got it.

Q. The top of that cemetery wall is not very safe, is it?

A. No. It's pretty dangerous.

"There are spikes sticking out of the top of the cemetery wall," Dr. Condon added.

SAW GUARD

Reilly asked if the venerable doctor had seen guards about the cemetery.

"Yes, I saw one near 233rd Street, inside the gate," he said.

Q. At that time?

A. A little later.

Q. Where was the guard when this man was coming up over the fence?

A. About thirty feet away, near a tree.

Q. There was nothing between this guard and the man climbing?

A. There was. There were some bushes, which have since been removed.

Q. Did the guard give any alarm?

A. No alarm.

"While talking to him ('John') I heard a noise," Dr. Condon said.

Q. Did you see the guard?

A. Yes.

Q. Describe him.

A. He was real—of German extraction. I mean, rather stout, I would call him a heavyweight.

Q. It's rather unusual, is it not, for a man to be climbing out of the cemetery at night?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you ever climb out of a graveyard at night, doctor?

A. I've never been in one at night.

RAN FAST

Reilly returned to the man who scaled the cemetery fence and fled toward Van Cortland Park.

Q. Did he run fast?

A. Yes. I would call it the step of a distance runner.

Q. How far did the man run before you caught up with him?

A. About 100 yards.

Q. Where was Al Reich then?

A. In the car.

COUGH DESCRIBED

Q. And I believe you said that as you were sitting there (in the shack nearby) you heard a cough?

A. Yes.

Q. A hard cough?

A. No.

Q. A soft cough?

A. No.

Q. Did the cough appear to come from his lungs?

A. Yes, sir, that's it.

"How long were you sitting there?" asked Reilly, after "Jafsie" had related how he had sat and talked with "John" in the park.

"About an hour and ten minutes," was the reply.

Q. And he coughed only once?

A. Yes, once.

Reilly then directed "Jafsie" to demonstrate how "John" had his coat collar up to his chin.

SLEEPING SUIT

Q. Do you know what this is?

A. Yes, that is the envelope—the package—in which the sleeping suit was mailed to me.

Q. Who actually received it?

A. I did.

Q. Where did it come from?

A. In the mail.

"What station did that come from?" Reilly asked, motioning to Dr. Condon to look at the postmark on the envelope.

Long and earnestly "Jafsie" peered at the cancelled stamps and finally confessed, "The stamps are so blurred I cannot see."

TWO NOTES DESCRIBED

Q. Two notes came in the package?

A. The two notes were wrapped inside the sleeping suit.

Q. What did you do with the notes?

A. I took them out of the sleeping suit and read them. One was addressed to Col. Lindbergh, and one to me.

"I sent for Col. Lindbergh to come up and see if the article I received was his baby's sleeping suit," he added.

"Jafsie" said he had received the suit on or about March 17 (St. Patrick's Day) "because that's a great day in my life."

Q. Ever buy one of these (sleeping) suits, Doctor?

A. Never. Didn't need them.

Q. Never bought any?

A. No.

TWO MORE NOTES

Dr. Condon told the defense cross-examiner that he had surrendered all his ransom evidence—the notes, the letters, the sleeping suit—"everything," to the police.

Reilly produced another letter dated March 19.

Dr. Condon examined it carefully for several minutes and looked up to say:

"Yes, sir, I received that letter."

Reilly then brought out still another of the state's ransom documents, and, as before, Dr. Condon looked at it long and intently, turning it over and over.

This note was postmarked April 1.

Q. Did you acquaint Col. Lindbergh of the contents of the note?

A. No. I asked Col. Breckenridge to help in this matter.

Col. Breckinridge was staying at the Condon home, "Jafsie" volunteered.

MONEY DIRECTIONS

The note directed "Jafsie" to have the ransom money ready for payment the following night, April 2.

Q. Then on Saturday the money came to you?

A. Yes, on April 2.

Q. How many people in your group knew it?

A. What do you mean by group?

Q. You, Col. Lindbergh, Col. Breckinridge—?

A. The three of us.

"The three of us knew it," Dr. Condon repeated.

Q. Al Reich didn't know it?

A. You'll have to ask him about that. I didn't tell him. I don't tell my business to anyone.

MAKING OF BOX

Q. Who made the box (in which the money was placed)?

A. I planned the making of the box.

Q. Didn't those who wrote the ransom notes suggest the box?

A. Yes.

Q. Then they planned it?

A. They suggested it.

"Who made the box?" Reilly repeated.

"Jafsie" heretofore never at a loss for an answer, fumbled.

Reilly almost leaped at him.

Q. Who made the box?

A. I can't remember the name. A woodworker on Webster Avenue, near 180th Street. I'd recall his name if it were mentioned.

"You had a box made," shouted Reilly, "and you don't know who made it?"

Prosecutor Wilentz popped up to object to Reilly's manner.

"Don't shout, don't shout," said Dr. Condon. "I can hear. I'm not deaf. I can hear every syllable you utter if you use your lips. Don't shout."

Reilly wanted to know who instructed him to have the box built "Col. Lindbergh and Col. Breckinridge," said the witness.

It cost $3.25 and was built according to his own plans, he went on, because he wanted to be able to recognize it if he ever saw it again.

There were five layers of wood in the box to make it distinctive, "Jafsie" related.

Reilly took up the story of Col. Lindbergh's futile airplane trip to Gay Head in search for the "boat Nellie," on which the kidnap note said the baby was held. There was a question about how good the visibility was for the plane flight.

NO SIGNED NOTES

Q. You never received any ransom notes after the payment of the ransom?

A. No, not with the signature.

"Jafsie" said he had received "lots" of notes after that, but none with the signature carried by all the four ten "ransom" notes.

VISITS TO ISLAND

Reilly turned his questioning to Dr. Condon's little shack on City Island.

Q. Was there any conference at your shack on City Island subsequently?

A. No.

Q. You went to City Island on week-ends?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. With whom did you talk on City Island?

A. With my neighbors—people I have known thirty-five years.

Q. Did you ever tell neighbors on City Island that you believed the baby was kidnapped by a gang?

A. I can't recall now.

Q. Did you tell anybody you were the "Jafsie" of the ad?

A. Yes, everybody.

Q. And you told all your neighbors you were "Jafsie"?

A. All I met.

MUCH TALK

Q. You've been talking about this case ever since to anyone who would talk to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember everything you ever said?

A. No. I don't think it's possible.

Q. You never made any record of your conversations with reference to the case?

A. No.

Q. And now you are depending on your memory in 1935 for something that happened in 1932?

Q. Did you ever say a woman took part in the kidnapping?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember telling newspapermen in the office of Attorney McCamphin the house that you knew the abductors?

A. I did not. Not to my recollection.

STRANGE TRIP

Reilly then shifted his line of attack.

Q. Did you ever go out in a boat in connection with the alleged kidnapping?

Q. In a boat you. Not not kidnapping?

Dr. Condon told Reilly he had been asked to go my sister to Brooklyn, alone, with a friend Leon and Leon's friend.

Q. Did you ever stand on the deck of a boat in which you believed the baby was hidden below the deck?

A. No.

Reilly interpreted a new note in the tone when he demanded Dr. Condon state whether or not he had ever said "the child's body was brought back to the spot where it was found."

He was trying to establish Dr. Condon had told that to a "Bronx Critic of the New York Inquirer" in New York.

"Jafsie" said he had no memory of the incident.

Reilly changed his course to inquire if after Hauptmann's arrest he had asked a detective for pictures of Hauptmann so he might study them, requesting the detective to tell no one of giving him the photos.

Dr. Condon made indignant denial of this.

MADE NO NOTE OF DATE

Q. I want the exact date of the month when you saw Hauptmann in the Bronx last August.

A. I don't remember.

Q. You mean to say you didn't note the date?

A. No.

Q. What was the name of the driver?

A. I don't know.

Q. What was the number of the bus?

A. I don't know

Q. Did you call out for the chauffeur, "Get that man?"

A. No, it was none of my business.

Q. It is your sworn testimony then that you made no effort to capture the man to whom you say you gave the $50,000, the man who double-crossed you on the ransom?

A. I didn't say that.

A. You didn't shout to driver to run him down?

A. No, it would be impossible to do that, there was so much traffic.

NAMES MENTIONED

Reilly suddenly asked Dr. Condon: "Do you recall a detective investigator by the name of Val O'Farrell?"

"Never saw him. Died, I believe," was the reply.

Q.—Did you ever know Mrs. Day?

A.—No sir.

Q.—Do you know Captain Bernard Rein?

A.—The name Capt. Rein is familiar. I do not remember the Bernard, though.

Q.—Do you remember Mrs. Peacock?

A.—Mrs. Peacock, I do.

"Jafsie" said he knew Capt. Rein at Woods Hole, Mass.

Q.—Where did you know Mrs. Peacock?

T.—She was a tenant of mine at City Island.

Q.—Did you ever tell anyone the headquarters of the kidnappers was at City Island?

A.—No.

"Jafsie's" spirit appeared subdued. He seemed a little tired.

Reilly then jumped to another angle.

V. Do you recall two women calling on you at your home during the ransom negotiations?

A. There were hundreds of them.

WOMEN IDENTIFIED

Reilly then asked a woman named Mrs. Keren, to stand up and come over to the witness stand for Dr. Condon to identify.

He identified her as one who with a companion named Mrs. Busch had called on him.

Q. Didn't you give Mrs. Bush these letters (referring to previous exhibits) and tell them they were in the handwriting of the kidnappers?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Didn't you tell them you knew the kidnappers were four in number?

A. I don't remember.

Reilly asked if Mrs. Busch had not identified herself as a native of Flemington by exhibiting bank cheques.

A. I don't remember exactly.

Wilentz demanded the letters be read to the jury.

"The contents are not so important," Reilly replied. "It is the handwriting. I will not have the letters read."

SCHOOL TRANSFER

Reilly started to ask if Dr. Condon had been transferred from a public school, where he had been a principal in 1932, because of "conduct unbecoming a gentleman, because of conduct with a woman teacher."

"No, sir," snapped Dr. Condon, while Wilentz objected.

Wilentz said he did not object to thorough cross-examination, but he would oppose "the assassination of a witness' character by inference."

Judge Trenchard permitted the answer to stand and court resumed shortly afterwards for luncheon.

Court resumed after the noon recess at 1.45 p.m.

Reilly announced he was through with his cross-examination of Condon and the state took the retired school teacher to clear up any obscurities in his testimony between questioning had developed.

One of the points the state sought to clarify was Jafsie's confusion over the first communication from the kidnapper.

TELLS OF SEARCH

Another question was:

"On the matter of your seeing Hauptmann during the bus ride in the Bronx, did you ask the driver to stop?"

"Yes, but he didn' stop," said Dr. Condon. "He stopped later and I searched for him.

NOT IN NAME

Dr. Condon testified: "I never went to Maine," under the redirect examination concerning the plane ride he took with Lindbergh while searching Massachusetts waters.

His answer was a reversal of his testimony under cross-examination.

Asked whether he had reported having seen Hauptmann to the authorities, Dr. Condon replied, choosing his words carefully:

"Yes, I reported it to the Department of Justice."

Dr. Condon was asked by the Attorney-General:

"Did you at any time from March 1, 1932, know that the baby's body had been placed in a grave in Mercer County, N.J.?"

"I did not," Dr. Condon replied firmly.

The witness was then excused.

STATEMENT DISCOUNTED

Los Angeles, Jan. 10 (Associated Press)—Charles Carrick, twenty-nine, was questioned by police yesterday after he had declared he was "certain" he could identify Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man who asked him the way to the house of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh the day the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped.

Authorities in New Jersey, where Hauptmann now is on trial, said they were "inclined to discount" such stories and were not interested in the statement of the Wilshire, Col., restaurant proprietor.

Pre-natal Relief Grant For Mothers

interview between the B.C. Joint Committee on Unemployment, sponsored by the Provincial Works Council and the C.C.F. Unemployment Conference, with the outlook. The delegation of that time asked more money for mothers, and was given an assurance by Mr. Pearson that the request would be considered.

After a baby is born, Mr. Pearson explained, it may become a dependent, and would then make the family eligible for an extra $4.75 in maximum destitution cases. In this way the pre-natal allowance amounts to starting an allowance for a baby four months before it is born.

HOW SCALE WORKS

The maximum scale for a man, wife and one child is now $22.50 a month. Where the wife became pregnant, the family would receive $90.00 in the four months preceding birth and the maximum afterwards would be $26.25.

Incidentally, the new allowance marks the third increase in relief scales in the last twelve months. The first was a straight 10 per cent advance in food allowances. This was followed by an extra $1 a month for each child.

It was unofficially estimated the maximum amount the new allowance would cost the government would be $200,000 a year.

MUCH OF EUROPE IS STORM SWEPT

London, Jan. 10.—The loss of at least twenty lives was attributed today to a severe assault of winter, general over much of Europe.

Fifteen of the victims were drowned when the 200-ton fishing trawler Roger Wallace foundered almost within sight of its home port, Hull, England.

Shipping in many parts of Europe was in distress. Five men were drowned near Belgrade when a small boat sank in the ice-jammed Danube River. A hurricane placed vessels on the Black Sea in peril.

Communications were interrupted in some sections, particularly Jugoslavia, where a blizzard disrupted railroad and telegraph activity. It was unusually cold in France and fog blanketed much of England.

WHEAT OUTLOOK

For North America the weather had its bright side. Andrew Cairns, Canadian director of the International Wheat Conference, said a continuation of the low temperatures would affect European wheat adversely, bringing an increased demand for importations from overseas.

Bennett Hears C.C.F. Challenge

Woodsworth Suggests Advanced Unemployment Insurance Legislation

Canadian Press

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 10. — James S. Woodsworth, member of the House of Commons for Winnipeg North Centre and national leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, yesterday evening endorsed, with some reservations, the proposals recently made by Premier R. B. Bennett regarding unemployment insurance, national health insurance and amendments to the Old Age Pensions Act.

Addressing an audience that crowded to capacity the Legion Hall here, he said his chief criticism of the Prime Minister's proposals was their indefiniteness, and added that they had, in the main, been advocated by the minority party for the last seven years.

"I would like to say to Mr. Bennett that, if he is sincere, he put on the statutes at the next session of Parliament legislation of the kind recently adopted in Great Britain," Mr. Woodsworth said.

Quoting from a recent cabled report, the C.C.F. leader referred to recent legislation which has increased unemployment insurance benefits in Great Britain and has assured cash relief to all persons normally in receipt of less than twenty-five shillings a week.

HIS CHALLENGE

"I would like to give that as a challenge to the Honorable R. B. Bennett," Mr. Woodsworth said.

For five years, Mr. Woodsworth stated, the Prime Minister had had a large majority in the House and abundant opportunity for bringing in such legislation.

"He has one more session to go, and unless he uses that opportunity this year — and I say our party will give him every assistance to put these measures through — I shall have no confidence in the future."

Mr. Woodsworth said that even if Mr. Bennett did introduce legislation in accordance with his proposals at the next session of Parliament, Canada would be no further ahead than European countries which put unemployment and health insurance into effect years ago, and still had their economic difficulties.

the drum. For, with brief, infrequent intervals, we have been in battle, one way or another, since 1914. . . .

"You boys and girls, young men and young women, who will take our place some day, we welcome you as our associates and successors in the task of building a greater Canada. . .

"I have said enough, for the time being, about the need for reform and about the nature of it.

"When you have had an opportunity to carefully think over what I have told you in these talks, we will continue them. . . .

"Our task—simple in theory, difficult in performance—is to replace in the old system those elements which are worn out, broken down obsolete and without further utility, so that the system may work. Perhaps some would call that 'radicalism.' If it is, it is the sort of radicalism you will have a lot more to do with, so long as we live under a well-ordered system. That type of radicalism makes for continuity of reform. It is the only guarantee of peaceful change.

"It is the only hope of prosperity. . . .

"But, committed as we are to change, determined as we are upon the need for it, resolute as we are to bring it fast about, we have not lost sight of the basic conditions upon which alone any changes can have fruitful results. This is a country of free men," continued Mr. Bennett. "Liberty is dearer to us than life. The right to work out our individual destinies under the guiding principals of our constitution and our laws is a right we will never surrender. . . .

SELFISH MEN

"Selfish men, and this country is not without them — men whose mounting bankrolls loom larger than your happiness, corporations without souls and without virtue—these, fearful that this government might impinge on what they have grown to regard as their immemorial right of exploitation, will whisper against us.

"They will call us radicals. They will say that this is the first step on the road to Socialism. We fear them not. We think that their ready compliance with our programme would serve their interests better than any ill-timed opposition to it.

"We invite their co-operation. We want the co-operation of all. . . .

FOR PEOPLE'S WELFARE

"The agencies of production, of manufacture, of distribution, of finance; all the parts of the capitalist system, have only one purpose and that is to work for the welfare of the people. And when any of these instruments in any way fails, it is the plain duty of a government which represents the people to remove the cause of failure.

"This I do not say by way of threat. I have told you that we hope for the unanimous support of all classes in this great and difficult task of reform, but I think it is only right to add that opposition from any class which imperils the future of this great undertaking we will not tolerate. The lives and the happiness and the welfare of too many people depend upon our success to allow the selfishness of a few individuals to endanger it."

He had reached the end of his outline of what had been done. The reasons behind his recovery measures, and the need for further action, Mr. Bennett said. More detailed information would be given Parliament.

est, except one, that you have ever taken."

There had been definite improvement in conditions in the past year, Mr. Bennett continued, but he was convinced further progress could not be achieved until defects in the economic system had been corrected.

"Across the vision of many have paraded what appeared to be the iniquities of big business, when often they were only its imbecilities and misfortunes," he said. "We will leave it that way.

INDIVIDUALS NOT BLAMED

"Individuals did not cause the faults in the system. Growth and change in the system were primarily responsible for that. But certain individuals and corporations took advantage of these faults, in order to benefit themselves. . . .

"Because of anxiety and trouble, class has been driven to enviousness of class, their association has been impaired, their co-operation has been lessened. Our whole social progress has been checked. . . .

"We must unite to banish from all places in the land, hardship and suffering and discontent. . . .

BOYS AND GIRLS

"When I dwell upon these tragic consequences of the economic upheaval," said Mr. Bennett, "I think more especially about the boys and girls of the nation who were born in war-time or in the years after the war, who have never known the tranquility of the old days, who have, all of them, been born within sound of

BREMER KIDNAP SUSPECT KILLED

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Federal agents have struck with deadly accuracy again in their [illegible] of crime—this time to kill Russell Gibson, thirty-two-year-old suspect in the $200,000 kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker.

Trapped in a northside apartment Tuesday evening, Gibson, an ex-convict and reputed member of the abduction gang of Alvin Karpis and Arthur Barker, attempted to shoot it out with a picked squad of sixteen agents, but his machine gun jammed and he fell mortally wounded.

New Board To Take Over Dole

Unemployment Insurance Body to Look After Jobless in Great Britain

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, Jan. 10. — Britain's new Unemployment Insurance Board was taking over from local authorities to-day the administration of relief under the dole system, which on March 1 will mean taking control of 4,000,000 unemployed persons.

Full centralization of relief work will not be accomplished until March, but 240 local offices which came into existence last Monday are at work.

Sir Henry Betterton, newly-created baron, is head of the board. He will be personal guardian of Britain's jobless and in effect administrator of government expenditures totaling $175,000,000 annually.

The move to centralize relief work, Sir Henry declared, would make for equality of treatment and uniform administration throughout the country.

The board is fully alive to the fact that the needs of 1,000,000 families affected cannot be forced into one mould," Sir Henry said. He cited the fact that rents vary in different localities and that therefore allowances for rent must vary also. He said allowances for children would be liberalized and more generous provision made for the personal requirements of wage earners.

The proposed changes in the insurance system drafted by the unemployment Assistance Board before Christmas provided allowances of three shillings weekly for each child under five years old, graduated upward to ten shillings to dependents twenty-one years old.

Part of the new system took effect last Monday. The rest will come into force March 1.

As a basic minimum of twenty-four shillings weekly for man and wife is provided in the new scale of payments, which will apply to unemployed now receiving transitional relief payment and other unemployed whose present help is the poor relief fund.

The new system is expected to cost Britain approximately £2,000,000 (approximately $15,000,000) annually, in addition to the present £41,000,000 paid transitional recipients.

Between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 persons are expected to benefit under the new plan.

TRIAL SHIPMENT MANITOBA BEEF

Brandon, Man., Jan. 10.—Hon D. G. McKenzie, Manitoba Minister of Agriculture, announced here the Manitoba government will sponsor a test shipment of chilled beef to the United Kingdom market this year.

Arrangements had been made with Winnipeg packing houses to make the shipments, said Mr. McKenzie in an address to a meeting of Manitoba livestock associations. The shipment would be made as an experiment.

The government would sponsor a shipment of 500 head of cattle to the United Kingdom market as well, said Mr. McKenzie. He expected the cattle to be ready for export next August. Where possible the cattle would be put on the feeding lots of the boys' and girls' calf clubs.

ACCUSED LECTURED; ACQUITTED

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Jan. 10 (Associated Press).—Walter King was thirty minutes late for his trial. The judge lectured him severely and threatened a $50 fine and thirty days in jail for the lateness. The rest of the morning was taken up with testimony. Then the jury acquitted him—of stealing a $1 link of bologna from a general store.

AUSTRALIA ENDS MUTTON EXPORTS

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 10.—Export of mutton and lamb from Australia to Great Britain has been banned by the Commonwealth government for the first three months of this year, fulfilling the government's promise to make voluntary restrictions for the first quarter as requested by the British Government.

The restrictions do not apply to pigs, frozen beef and veal. South Australia, Australia's leading producer, is not much affected because the season here is nearly over.

The Australian Government, after much negotiation, finally fell in line with the British request on condition the British Government will confer on a long-term policy following the end of March. The British Government is endeavoring to limit its total meat imports from the Dominions in the first three months of the year to the average of past three years' first quarters.

NO EARLY RAIL UNIFICATION

Hon. R. B. Hanson Says Bennett Government Not Promoting Amalgamation

Moncton, N.B., Jan. 10.—Reiteration of the policy of the Bennett administration that the two Canadian railways will be operated as separate entities was made here yesterday evening by Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

"The position to-day is that so far as this government is concerned we are not promoting the policy of amalgamation or unification," he said. "We are hopeful that with the return of prosperity the situation will be clarified. What the future holds for the people of Canada with respect to the railways is unknown to any of us. If the situation gets worse instead of better, the whole position may have to be reviewed, but at the moment I can say to you: That the policy of this party is represented by its deeds and acts.

"I am hopeful that with returning prosperity to this country, with increased tonnage and consequent increased revenues, that the national railway system will, within a reasonable period of time, be in a position to carry its operation and maintenance and pay the interest on its funded debt. If that time arrives within a measurable distance of time, I think you will hear nothing more about amalgamation."

Mr. Hanson spoke at a banquet given in his honor.

Mr. Hanson voiced a challenge to opponents of the government to declare their position in regard to the "new deal" of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

PROMISES INFORMATION

Moncton, N.B., Jan. 10.—Full information as to the policy of the government would be available in all parts of the Dominion early, J. Earl Lawson, M.P., newly-appointed Dominion organizer for the Conservative Party, told a banquet audience here yesterday evening.

He spoke at a banquet in honor of Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Mr. Lawson declared the achievements of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett during the years of depression had placed him amongst the foremost of Canadian premiers since Confederation.

Dillinger's Two Operations Told

Chicago Surgeon Describes How Gunman Almost Died Before Police Shot Him

Associated Press

Chicago, Jan. 10.—The eerie story of how John Dillinger almost died under a surgeon's knife while a law enforcement army hunted him in vain was publicly related for the first time yesterday.

Dr. Harold Harvard Cassidy made the recital from the witness stand in the federal court trial of Lawyer Louis Piquette on charges of illegally shielding the slain gang chief.

With Dr. Wilhelm Loeser he went to the desperado's hideout in Chicago on the night of last May 22, he said. Dillinger submitted to an examination and asked that they revamp his features and remove telltale marks of identification. He described the near fatal operation as follows:

"Dillinger calmly stripped and lay down on a bed. I improvised an ether mask and started to give him the anaesthetic.

"Suddenly he stopped breathing.

"Dr. Loeser and I had to give him artificial respiration to get him breathing again.

"Afterwards Dr. Loeser removed a mole from between his eyebrows and made two lateral incisions, one on each cheek and one on the nose and chin."

But the outlaw was not satisfied, the doctor went on, and he and Dr. Loeser performed another operation on Dillinger the night of June 2.

Dr. Cassidy stated he had received $1,200 for his work on the outlaw, who later was shot to death by police.

Dreadfully Painful RHEUMATISM IN NECK AND HEAD

T-R-C's brought great relief in one day

A neighbor's timely gift of T-R-C's (Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules) proved a great blessing to Mrs. Jos. Castonguay, Otter Lake, P.Q. Read her experience. "About 3 years ago I had been in bed for a week suffering from a dreadful pain up the back of my neck and on top of my head. The doctor and the priest told me I had rheumatism. It was a very sharp pain, but not like an ordinary headache. I was very sick and suffering greatly."

"A friend, Mrs. Lalonde, brought me eight T-R-C's. I took them two after each meal and two more at bedtime. Next day I was able to get up and do a big day's work. Always a few doses of T-R-C's have got rid of pain for me, whenever I have had an attack since."

Deep-rooted, stubborn cases of Rheumatism require patient and correct use of T-R-C's for a reasonable length of time. But you are sure of relief if you persist with T-R-C's. Repeatedly they have given safe, speedy relief from Acute Rheumatic suffering; also from Sciatica, (stabbing pain in hip and thigh), Painful Neuritis, Neuralgia (including Tic Douloureux) and Lumbago (Lame Back). No harmful or habit-forming drugs.

T-R-C's do this—enter the blood stream and help your body throw off the salvery-causing poisons which have accumulated in your blood. When these go, health and happiness return. T-R-C's are 50c and $1 everywhere.

Bill To End No Par Value Shares Is Bennett's Plan

that might be in the way of some of his reform plans. To-day it was learned this subject may be left for parliamentary debate and not touched on in the pre-session address.

SAYS SUPPORT NEEDED

Starting his address Mr. Bennett said:

"This is my fourth talk to you within eight days. At the outset, may I say how deeply I appreciate your interest and encouragement. . . . Your support I must have if this great reform movement is to succeed."

The Prime Minister then devoted some time to a review of what had gone before, repeating his belief that further progress toward complete recovery was impossible without reform.

Turning then to what he described as "a further important measure in my reform programme," Mr. Bennett spoke of conditions leading up to the establishment of the Bank of Canada, better known as the central bank.

BANK RATES

Telling how bank rates had been reduced, he said a progressive programme of debt conversion had been carried out, saving in annual interest charges some $14,000,000. The lowering of the bank rate resulted in lowering of general rates on borrowed money. Two of the largest mortgage lending institutions were now offering money on first mortgages at 5½ per cent.

He said there was vital need of a central bank, which, while co-operating with the private banks, would have particular regard for the welfare of the community at large. "The Bank of Canada will be such an institution, charged with the responsibility of seeing that the volume of credit available in the country does not solely depend on the working of competitive business forces."

STOCK WATERING

Turning then to what he termed "the social and economic evil commonly called 'stock watering'," Mr. Bennett said this constituted a definite impairment of the economic system.

"Notwithstanding the legislation of recent years, the protection of the investor must be improved," the Prime Minister declared. "It is still inadequate. There must be stricter government regulation of finance in this field so that improper practices may be detected in time and effectively dealt with. The ravages of the promoter who operated in the period of 1926 to 1930 cannot now be repaired. But we can at least see to it that he does not again operate in the same way.

"Our Dominion Companies Act will, therefore, have to be strengthened. There must be drastic simplification of capital structure so that the investor will be able to understand the nature of the stock or security he is purchasing. At the next session of Parliament, the Companies Act will be amended so as to abolish the right to issue shares of no par value.

REPORTS TO PUBLIC

"The searchlight of publicity must be turned on every issue of securities offered to the public. Adequate machinery must be set up to inquire into and report on corporate developments which tend towards combination and concentration. In other words, the door must be locked before, not after, the horse is stolen.

"Between 1922 and 1930, a great many of our people were the victims of practices against which the law provided no adequate safeguards. From time to time, attempts have been made to stop these persistent and recurring evils. None have been wholly effective. The many victims of stock promotion, in the years before the crash, are the certain proof of that. The problem bristles with difficulties, but the government will enact legislation at the next session of Parliament which it confidently expects will, with the wholehearted co-operation of the citizens of Canada, stamp out this evil in corporations operating under Dominion authority."

It was his duty, now that he had unhesitatingly set a policy of reform and stood committed to it, to tell the people, said Mr. Bennett. It was their privilege to support or reject it. The election was momentous—"the greatest

A GREAT NEWSPAPER EXECUTIVE

MR. E. H. MACKLIN, WHO RETIRES to-day from the general managership of The Winnipeg Free Press after an association of thirty-five years, holds a unique position in the esteem of his colleagues in Canadian newspaperdom. He is admired for his outstanding ability as a newspaper builder and executive, his business sagacity, his vision, energy and courage, and at the same time he is held in affectionate regard for his splendid humanity, unvarying kindliness, toleration and unselfishness. These arresting qualities of mind and person have radiated an influence which has pervaded the entire realm of the Canadian press.

Mr. Macklin has been an important factor in the growth of The Free Press from a publication of modest dimensions into one of the most influential and best-conducted newspapers on the continent. In all of this progress there has been no line of demarcation between his reactions as an executive and his high sense of genuine human values. Interest in the welfare of his big staff, in their urgent problems, always has played an important part in Free Press business policy. He is a conspicuous refutation of the theory that business and sentiment do not mix, for in him one is the natural complement of the other. There are not two E. H. Macklins; there is only one.

His active interest in newspaper work extends way beyond the spacious boundaries of the institution with which he has been connected so long. Every struggling little publication commands his sympathetic concern, and every newspaperman, no matter how humble, can always depend upon his friendly counsel. Nor is this interest in human welfare confined to his own calling. On the contrary, it has been manifested on behalf of every worthy cause which has challenged his attention and which has had not only his own support in a personal sense, but that of the powerful establishment under his direction. All this is done without ostentation and display, which, like cant and humbug, are abhorrent to him. Public expressions of appreciation are embarrassing to him and he tries to avoid them by occasional brusqueness which deceives nobody, since everybody knows it is merely a screen.

He dislikes the limelight, yet no newspaper executive in this country is more widely known or has a larger acquaintance in all of the channels of Canadian life than he. As the founder of the Western Associated Press, the forerunner of the Canadian Press, the great co-operative newsgathering organization through which Canadian newspapers receive most of their telegraph news and whose ramifications now extend all over the world, his influence has penetrated into the office of almost every newspaper in the Dominion. In this respect, indeed, he has been a real nation builder since the Canadian Press has established an intimate bond of union between all of the Canadian provinces through their press.

The regret which is felt over Mr. Macklin's retirement from the general managership of The Winnipeg Free Press is tempered by the announcement that he will continue to act as president of the company and will retain his directorate in the Canadian Press. This means that his many admiring colleagues will continue to keep in touch with him and benefit from his sage counsel and personal interest in them. Although his newspaper association now encompasses fifty-five years he retains in full measure his vivid interest in his calling, his personal charm remains undiminished, and his friends are confident that in his case "age can not wither nor can custom stale the infinite variety" of his qualities.

He will be succeeded in the general managership of The Winnipeg Free Press by Mr. Victor Sifton, youngest surviving son of the late Sir Clifford Sifton, who acquired the newspaper many years ago. The new general manager has been the chief executive of newspapers under the same ownership in Saskatchewan, and his successful record there justifies the prediction that in him Mr. Macklin will have a worthy successor.

SOME SPEED—BUT TOO LATE

A TORONTO LIBERAL SAYS PREMIER Bennett's "government intervention" speech suggests that the Prime Minister is "so scared by the speed of his toboggan that he would even steer it into a tree rather than keep on going."

Undoubtedly Mr. Bennett is putting on quite an expensive political entertainment; but then, of course, he can afford it. The point that puzzles us, however, is what the Canadian public thinks about all he is promising as he repents on his political death-bed. Right off his own bat, for example, he has told us that he champions the following:

National unemployment insurance.
National old age pensions.
National health insurance.
National sickness insurance.
National accident insurance.
Regulation of profits in business.
Better wealth distribution.
Minimum wage laws.
Regulation of work hours.
Regulation of child labor.
New teeth in marketing laws.
Controlled capitalization of companies.
Controlled grain handling.
Government control of business.

When you come to think of it, the foregoing is a legislative programme to which all opponents of Conservatism can subscribe without the flicker of an eyelash—if an attempt were made to carry them out. But it is worth noting that there is nothing in this programme which Premier Bennett could not have started at any time during the last four years and a half.

Mr. Bennett's first attempt to end unemployment or "publish the attempt" was to jack up the tariffs—a procedure which immediately cut down the Dominion's external trade to a point that finally dwindled to the level on which it rested in 1913, when our population was less than eight millions. This policy added thousands to the workless army.

It is significant, moreover, that in his promises of reform Premier Bennett has not included a promise to lower the country's tariff walls which shelter and promotes the distortions in our economic system which he now says should be corrected.

GEORGE DENNY PASSES

A SPACIOUS CAREER IN JOURNALISM, marked by high ability and devotion to duty, but unmarked by any ostentation or attempt to publicize it, came to an end on Tuesday night with the passing of Mr. George Denny, a native son of this city, who will be widely remembered here through his connection with the local press.

There are few living journalists who have had so comprehensive and diversified an experience as that which fell to the lot of Mr. Denny. He reported for the great newsgathering organization with which he was connected many of the major developments of world-wide interest which have arisen in the last thirty years, particularly in Europe, Asia and on this continent. Probably nobody else in his profession knew well so many leading international figures in every walk of life as he knew them, and none was more intimately familiar with the background and inside of the various issues and incidents which have appeared in the headlines of the world press, whether they have had to do with governments or luminaries in the fields of art, literature, science, sport, war and crime.

Mr. Denny had an attractive personality which at once begat confidence. Calm, tactful and fair, always able to see things in their proper perspective, he had no difficulty in establishing friendly contact with the most exclusive sources of public information. It was the expression of these qualities and his fine sense of duty in his successful record which inspired the Associated Press to retain him in the all-important London bureau for some twenty years.

He had many friends in his native city who always enjoyed his periodical visits, not only because of their bonds of friendship with him, but also because he was a mine of accurate, interesting information. An evening with him provided a liberal education in contemporary history. The news of his death was received with keen regret here, and there will be genuine sympathy with his relatives in the loss of this gifted Victorian.

THE U.S. DEBT

WHEN THE FISCAL YEAR OF THE United States ends next June the public debt of the republic will be about thirty-four billions. True, this is a staggering sum, but it must be considered in conjunction with other factors.

The population of the United States now is almost 130,000,000 and the national wealth of the country, based on figures compiled before the Great War, is in the neighborhood of $360,000,000,000!

The moral of the argument is that the United States does not have to worry very much about the addition of another four billions to its national debt—that being the figure which President Roosevelt thinks his second phase of the New Deal will cost.

Mr. Roosevelt made it quite clear that if the first phase of his New Deal did not produce all he wanted it to produce, he would try something else.

Last November's mid-term congressional elections gave him a definite mandate to go ahead in the manner he considered necessary. He put his cards on the table before Congress the other day—and he will get what he wants.

The main achievement which will go down to the credit of Mr. Roosevelt is that he created a new spirit of hope among the people of the United States when they needed it most. He began as a man of action and he still remains so.

We in Canada are intensely interested from every point of view in an economic revival in the United States. We are hoping for that revival as much as the people of the republic are hoping for it themselves.

The Vancouver Province announces that the three men who went to Russia for a three-months' investigating tour have returned impressed with the conditions they found there. Particularly were they impressed with the industrial development which is taking place. A representative of the British Columbia's loggers' and lumbermens' organization was one of the party. It would be interesting to hear what he has to say about conditions in Soviet Russia's lumber camps. In the business of selling lumber to the United Kingdom this province is much concerned. Russia and other northern European countries are our chief competitors.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE MAGIC CARPET
The Edmonton Bulletin

No line of steamships and no line of railway can ever take the place of an international highway as a tourist attraction. The automobile owner is captain of his own ship and conductor of his own train. Any kind of a vehicle having four wheels, a brake and a gas engine becomes to its owner a Golden Argosy into which he can load his family and start for the Land of Dreams.

HOUSING PROBLEMS
The Ottawa Citizen

Most housing schemes on this continent have failed in their objective of providing homes for the worst housed because the subsequent charges made rents too high. What are needed are dwellings which will rent for $15 a month. . . The fact is, however, that under the present policy of taxing improvements private enterprise cannot construct such homes as the federal administration visions, and make them profitable. If private enterprise cannot build them, and the government should not, it follows that millions of families must forever live in shacks and decrepit structures. There are no two ways about it, and it would be useful if those now engaged in surveying housing needs in Ottawa to-day kept this important point in mind.

A THOUGHT

REACTIONS

THE REACTIONS of the world's other great reformers to Premier Bennett's radical conversion should be interesting. Since the newspapers have fallen down on the job we must, I have taken the trouble to secure them direct from the gentlemen involved. Their comments, as exclusively communicated to this department, are as follows:

President Roosevelt: "When I started I thought it was a good idea at the time, too. It's not the original investment but the upkeep that costs the money."

Adolf Hitler: "It is splendid. Mr. Bennett will get there all right. Don't forget that I started as a radical socialist, too, and look where I got."

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald: "Mr. Bennett's proposal for a union fills me with admiration. I started that way, too, and I'm still in office, while all the other radicals are out. Right always wins. That is why I have moved so steadily away from the left. But if you want anything for publication, you'll have to ask Mr. Baldwin. I leave the government to him and he never bothers me so long as I confine myself to the peace of the war-worried and don't interfere with public affairs. This job suits me fine and the pay is reasonably good."

Mr. Mussolini: "Mr. Bennett seems to have developed the proper technique, and I have no doubt he will succeed as I did. To succeed in this game you have to be born with the instinct for it. Mr. Bennett seems to have it. He is starting alarmingly at the left but, mind you, don't let that upset you. I was far more radical than he was before I marched on Rome, and the big interests were actually afraid of me. That's a good one, eh?"

Mr. Stalin: "Please give my warmest fraternal greetings to our new Comrade. I had always felt sure Comrade Bennett would join us eventually. Naturally we shall divert the huge sums of Russian gold formerly paid to the C.C.F. to the Conservative Party to aid it in the World Revolution. We always thought the C.C.F. was a little too reactionary and tinged with capitalism. But Comrade Bennett looks to us like the real goods."

CYCLIST

A FELLOW who signs himself with the interesting signature, "Bruised But Brazen," writes a pathetic wail to the editor of this newspaper. He says that after reading this column he found himself lying flat on the ground in the Dardenelles of Fort Street, covered with mud (a remarkable tribute to the powerful impact of the thoughts contained daily herein) and that, lying thus he had an opportunity to meditate about the habits of Victoria motorists.

I should have thought there would be more comfortable places and more opportune occasions for such meditations, but no matter. He lay there meditating in the Dardenelles, and he remembered, he says, that he had done the same thing again and again. He had fallen off his bicycle in the Dardenelles and lain there covered with mud and no motorist paid the least attention to him. No passer-by as much as looked at him. He says this is a remarkable evidence of our Stoical Island culture which makes people pass recumbent cyclists without a tremor.

And he is so roused by this great thought that he rushes out and writes a letter to the editor about it, always a safe thing to do when you are overcome with emotion.

Yes, Mr. Bruised but Brazen is right. We are a race of curious people, and not the least curious is a cyclist who apparently makes a habit of falling down in the Fort Street Dardenelles after reading this column for the deliberate purpose of attracting the attention of heartless motorists, a rather painful case of extreme exhibitionism. Anyway, I gather from his letter that he rather

A ROSE

If I would steal my heart, I would not dare
To take a rose between my hands, for there
In that perfumed and petalled loveliness
Is typified all good I might express.
Its beauty is serene, though but a day
Is spent before it passes quite away;
Its gifts for all alike with gladness spring
As freely to a beggar as to king.
Thus the day is rather added delight,
Its perfume lends new magic to the night.
The lover holds it to his darling's cheek,
And in death's room it makes despair less bleak.
If I compare in any wished plot,
It must be where the rose's face is not;
If I would harbor hatred for my foes,
Let me not ever look upon a rose!

THE VOW

She vowed for better or for worse.
And to the pledge was true,
But till he faced an empty place
Her love he never knew.

The early years were blithe and gay
With laughter and with song,
Then trouble came and day by day
Her love continued strong.

Until disaster starred the place
He never knew that she
So bravely poverty could face
And smile so tenderly.

He knew that she had made a vow,
And thought it lightly said.
But humble now much she meant is now
Since Sorry has fled.

BUDGET DRAFT FOR SCHOOLS

Slight Change in Total Expenditures Expected For City Institutions

But a slight change in Victoria's school budget for 1935, as compared with that of 1934, was foreseen to-day following rough preliminary estimates blocked in by the board at its meeting yesterday evening.

At the conclusion of the preliminary survey of finances, the board set its estimated gross expenditures at $559,401, against a gross of $549,897 last year. The current gross estimate was lowered to a net $450,081 by the deduction of estimated gross receipts tentatively computed at $109,720, a figure approximately $600 above actual gross receipts last year.

The estimated net expenditure, tentatively set at $450,081, is $9,171 above actual net expenditures for 1934 and $2,708 above estimated net expenditures for last year.

It is, however, $11,457 above the figure $439,224 entered in the City Council's preliminary 1935 draft estimates for school purposes.

When the pruning knife has been used, the two figures are expected to come closer to one another.

In 1933, when the estimated net expenditures were a little over $1,300 above the rough estimates figured yesterday evening, the mill rate was 19.5977 mills.

RISE IN MAINTENANCE

In their preliminary survey, the members of the board tentatively set the costs of maintenance and operation of the schools at $59,285 against $58,785 last year, increasing their prospective allotments slightly in virtually all cases under that heading. The increase was made up largely of boosts in the estimates for coal, wood and fuel oil, amounting to about $1,000; of $1,740 for sundry services, and of $5,150 for building repairs, etc.

The appropriation for teachers' salaries was lowered $1,650 through staff reductions already in force. That reduction was minimized, however, by allowances for increments.

With these exceptions, estimated expenditures did not vary more than $500 from actual expenditures last year, except in the case of the cafeteria, from which a greater revenue is expected this year.

Should the full annual payment to sinking fund and annual debenture interest be made this year, that would account for an expenditure of $74,776.40. That total was included in the gross estimates, but it was understood the council, in pursuance of the policy adopted last year in regard to sinking fund payments, might meet a charge of only a part of that amount.

Following their brief consideration yesterday evening, the estimates were tabled, pending committee action on the different details.

COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Following is the summary of the estimated receipts and expenditures considered by the board, showing the estimate for 1935 in the last column and the actual expenditures for 1934 in the first column:

NOTED ACTOR VISITS TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Edmund Gwenn, the English actor who endeared himself to thousands through his playing in the role of Jem Ockroyd in J. B. Priestley's "Good Companions," discoursed to an interviewer here yesterday on the requisites of a thespian.

Asked which was more important to an actor's success, equipment that appealed to the eye or to the ear, he said:

"Difficult to say—a magnetic face and a thrilling voice usually go together. Whatever the avenue of appeal, the great gift for an actor, or an actor, or a singer, for that matter is the God-given power of 'radiation,' but please don't ask me to define radiation."

The Victoria and District Cornish Association will hold its annual banquet on Saturday, January 12, in the Knowlmere Hall, Fort Street. Supper for members will be served at 6.30. A concert will start at 8.30 o'clock.

Seeks Reeveship On Communism Platform

Peter D. Wilson Announces Saanich Candidature at Ward Four Meeting; Other Speakers Are Heard

For the first time in the history of the municipal elections a Communist candidate will contest the Saanich reeveship at the polling on January 23. Peter D. Wilson, 3[illegible] Vincent Street, announced at the meeting of the Ward Four Ratepayers' Association yesterday evening he was seeking support on a straight policy of Communism.

Mr. Wilson was asked to run by the Saanich Relief Workers' Union which, he stated, was not a Communist organization. He chose his own policy, he said.

Mr. Wilson's entry into the reeveship contest makes it now a four-cornered race with Reeve Crouch, George McWilliam Sr., and John Reid.

Another candidate was announced yesterday when L. H. Plummer, 2045 Heath Drive of Ward Seven stated he would contest a school board vacancy. This causes a three-way contest with Trustee William Tomes and William Ingils of Cadboro Bay.

Candidates for the approaching election were hemmed at the meeting, which was presided over by S. P. Atkinson, president.

George McWilliam Sr., a contestant for the reeveship, was the first speaker.

"Why shouldn't Ward Four have a reeve; it's been a long time since our ward was represented in the reeve's chair," he said. He had been approached by ratepayers of various wards to run, and after seeing that none of the present councillors were going to contest the chief post, he decided to run.

TIME FOR CHANGE

He believed it was time for a change in Saanich after the municipality had got into a groove governing the same policy for several years.

He felt that two years' experience on the council and three years on the school board had qualified him for the post.

In outlining his policy, he said he would endeavor to tackle successfully the relief problem. It had been proven the council's policy on that question was just muddling along on a problem which was not municipal. With the support of the council he would attempt to have the problem taken over by the province, if elected.

MUNICIPAL WORK

"Looking back over the last four years, you cannot see much benefit, can you?" he asked. He proposed to give relief work in a form which would benefit Saanich.

The land to-day could not be taxed further to meet social services, and Mr. McWilliam said he would advocate the return of this burden to the government.

On police matters he favored a plebiscite on whether or not the provincial force would be introduced into the municipality.

The speaker believed the signs of the times were better than three years ago and he hoped better times would come for all. He asked support as a resident of the municipality who was out for the good of the municipality.

"How do you propose to put the burden of relief back on the government?" William Plummer asked the candidate.

Mr. McWilliam said he would bring it before the council and submit its finding to the provincial government which would consider it with federal authorities.

USELESS ATTEMPT

"In view of the fact that the Premier referred to a delegation from the municipalities' union as a 'bunch of gatecrashers' don't you think that would be kind of useless?" asked Mr. Plummer, suggesting that it would be better policy for the municipalities to refuse to hanger for relief.

"Perhaps it would," was the reply.

A. R. Ritz asked if the candidate was in favor of reducing penalties on tax arrears.

He replied that he would seek change in the Municipal Act to this end.

In answer to another question Mr. McWilliam stated he would be willing to allow a man three years in arrears in taxes to work out his current year's levy.

"I'd like to ask Mr. McWilliam if he would be willing to act 'a la Premier Hepburn' in regard to the municipal staff," said Mr. Ritz.

He thought a survey of the hall staff might be made.

P. D. Wilson introduced himself to the meeting and said he had not made up his platform or originated any slogans as yet.

"How about 'Work and Wages'—it worked once," came a voice from the audience.

He intended to open discussions along a new line of thought on different municipal problems. One reason he had decided to run was that the present reeve had refused to allow him to speak at any meeting at which he (the reeve) appeared, having once classified him as "a member of the rabble."

Mr. Wilson, after stating he was working on relief, was asked whether, if elected, he proposed to do anything about "the mess at the side of the road" on which relief men work. He said he was not responsible for it but, if elected, the only difference might be that "the reeve would be working at the side of the road instead of me."

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Councillor W. R. Woods, seeking re-election, was unable to attend, but sent a letter in which he briefly reviewed the year's activities and asked support. He replied he would speak at greater length at the election meeting later.

Trustee William Tomes, seeking re-election, was the only candidate in attendance seeking office as a trustee.

"This marks the end of six years of public service in this municipality," he said.

"If the people of Saanich think they want a change, Tomes will go away a happier man after receiving an education and experience which I could not have received anywhere else."

He reviewed developments during these six years, making particular reference to the construction of the high schools.

WIDER SYSTEM NEEDED

Mr. Tomes thought the educational system should be made broader, more useful and more comprehensive, and stressed the need for technical education throughout the Dominion.

The burning of the McKenzie Avenue School was an instance where disaster had brought a blessing in its wake, he thought, referring to the improvements effected in the new school.

The trustees in the last year had economized until they almost "cut their fingers," he continued. While this was so, money would have to be spent sooner or later, since many repairs were becoming an absolute necessity. Between $25,000 and $30,000 had been saved by the trustees in the year, he said, and balance sheets would be available before the elections to allow the people to see for themselves the manner in which the money had been spent.

QUESTIONABLE MATTERS

In regard to the building of the new school there were certain matters. If they had been allowed to proceed, would have been a scandal to the municipality. Fortunately there were "nipped in the bud." Without making definite references, he alluded to matters brought to the board's attention regarding the supervision and contracting, but the appointment of the secretary as an overseer had caused everything to be completed with satisfaction. He also dealt with the financing of the new school.

Trustee Tomes was asked for his opinion on the building of a school in the Cadboro Bay area.

He pointed out that earlier in the year there had been seventy-two pupils being carried to Cedar Hill School in buses, but now there were only forty-five, which did not warrant the construction of a school.

FARM CONTROL IS OPPOSED

Chairman of Island Institutes Warns Against Price-fixing and Quotas

Warning against control of farm production and price fixing was given by E. W. Hoy, chairman of the Vancouver Island District Farmers' Institutes, who was re-elected at the annual meeting here yesterday.

This type of government intervention would leave the farmers worse off in the end, he claimed. In some countries production had been controlled, farmers regimented and all benefits done to prove that brain workers, with a wave of the hand, could control nature. In one country nature took up the challenge and hit back with a drought so severe as to become a national calamity and now that country had to import large quantities of hay and feed grains to feed its livestock.

Experiments had also shown potatoes, to be uneconomical, he claimed. If the price were too low the producer was dissatisfied, if it were too high, in the opinion of the consumer he would curtail purchases and leave the produced worse off than ever.

Appreciation of the efforts of Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, in his assistance to the industry, was expressed by the speaker, who expressed hope for the continued improvement in economic conditions during the coming year.

Mr. Neal was also named a member on the advisory board of B.C. Farmers' Institutes with C. H. Seigerson as alternative. W. H. Bonsens was re-elected secretary.

C. E. Whitney-Griffiths presided.

John Cloke was elected to playing membership.

Discussion took place on the condition of the ground at the back of No. 3 green, and No. 7, where the river has done considerable damage. No. 5 tee and green are still out of commission. Col. A. F. M. Slater, W. Frost and T. H. Hingston will go into the matter with the groundsman.

Mrs. M. Little presided at the fortnightly meeting of L'Alliance Française held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. A. Stanier, 1545 Richmond Avenue. The personnel of the court of Louis the Fourth, the topic under discussion, was ably handled by a number of the members, who brought much interest upon the various personages who comprised the entourage of the Grand Monarch. Colbert, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, who in his genius undertook the organization and supervision of so many different industries and manufactories, and fostered arts and sciences to such a marked degree, was spoken of as an executor and also as a man, the dual personality being most effectively dealt with by Miss Geache and Madame Vivenot; brilliant reviews of the lives of Madame de Montespan and her predecessor, Louise de la Vallière, in court, and who in turn was followed after eight years of despotic ascendancy by Madame de Maintenon, the former widow of the poet Scarron, were given; and General Louvois, the genius of the army, with the controversies and jealousies between him and Colbert, who successfully managed everything excepting the army, made another delightful review by Miss Kennedy. The League d'Augsburg was explained by Mrs. Hamilton-Smith, and Mrs. Stanier gave a resume of the last days of Anne D'Autriche, mother of Louis IV.

The next fortnightly meeting will be held on January 29.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

BY ALICIA HART

BEAUTY AIDS CHEAPER IN QUANTITY

"It takes a lot of money to keep yourself well groomed," complained the girl who lives on a limited income. "I do wish I could manage to care for my skin and hair without having to worry so much about the cost."

Her problem is one of the majority of women face. To keep skin, nails and hair neat and attractive and clothes clean and pressed does require careful budgeting. However, it can be done. And right now, at the beginning of a New Year, is a fine time to start.

First, remember that a large quantity of any preparation is cheaper than a small amount. You get more for your money when you buy cleansing cream in half-pound jars, powder in large boxes, skin tonic in quart bottles and toilet water in huge flacons. Cotton in pound rolls costs little compared to what you pay when you get it in tiny containers. Cleansing tissues are less expensive when you buy two or three large boxes at a time. Watch for sales in your favorite drug or department store and get supplies then.

Lipsticks that can be refilled are economical. So are loose-powder cosmetics.

Learn to use all your preparations in an economical manner. A thin coat of cleansing cream will clean your skin just as well as a heavy one. Tissue cream lasts longer and really has a better effect if you use it sparingly and pat it in with a patter of your fingertips. To save skin tonic, dip a cotton pad in cold water and wring it out before you soak it in the tonic.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER BLODGED

CHILD WILL LEARN GOOD MANNERS BEST AT HOME

Etiquette and the verbal niceties of social intercourse are arts which the child must learn. In many cases he learns these painlessly in the home, when the parents themselves are adept in the art. Quite often, unfortunately, the parent makes the of her manners only with her adult friends, forgets it with her children, and then imposes manners upon them as a taught lesson. It works poorly.

The child acts always in imitation of the parent, and if the parent forgets to say, "Thank you," pleasantly, if she fails to greet the child with a cheerful "Good morning," and a gracious "Good night," the child gets no reason for worrying himself about these apparently unnecessary formalities.

MANNERS MAKE EASE

Manners have to be used constantly with the small child until they become automatic with him. Then he doesn't say "Please" and "Thank you," and "How do you do," because his mother says he must, but because these words are definite parts of each particular social situation. To use them becomes as natural and unconscious as for adults.

Customs and modes are outgrown. In past days children said, "Yes, ma'am" and "Yes, sir." To-day they say, "Yes, Mrs. Smith," "Yes, Mr. Black." What is necessary, though, is that children know the patter used in greeting and leaving people.

When children know what to say, they are seldom overcome by shyness in the face of a new person or a new situation. They can do their small part ably and escape.

IGNORE PERVERSITY

We have a leaflet called "Etiquette for Children," which discusses the more modern social forms. It may be had for the usual self-addressed, stamped envelope sent with a request for it to Myrtle Meyer Blodged in care of this newspaper.

The acquisition of good manners should not be made odious to the child, as it is if he is punished for his lapses. Like all learning the child knows and forgets, knows again inevitably for all times.

In certain situations when the child despite his knowledge elects to be silent, ignore him. Next time he may not be in a perverse mood and his mother's actions will not have scared him on manners and all they stand for. Good manners should never be connected in the child's mind with anything but pleasure in knowing how to use them.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

"Starting the New Year Off Right" was the theme of the initial meeting of the Metropolitan Y.P.S. for 1935. This was brought about by an original idea in the form of a capsule party. Everyone present wrote their name on a slip of paper and put it in a capsule. These were then distributed around and the receiver of one of them was to do a good turn or to create cheer to the one whose name was in the capsule they selected.

Rev. J. H. A. Warr, aided by lantern slides, led in a lively singsong which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

A popular song, "Pop Goes Your Heart," by Genevieve Knapp, was very well received. A humorous skit, "Slide-lights on Surgery," added much merriment to the evening's programme.

A demonstration in first aid was given by four members of the Y.M.C.A. ambulance corps.

Games conducted by Elbert Wood and refreshments under the convenership of Hazel McPhee concluded a very successful programme.

The meeting was brought to an end within a fellowship circle conducted by Mr. Warr, in which Herbert Simpson read a poem incidental to the evening's theme.

LUXTON

Mrs. Stewart Hutchinson entertained a number of young people in honor of her children, Eloise and George. Games were enjoyed and supper was served, Mrs. Caton assisting Mrs. Hutchinson. Those present were: M. Radcliff, B. Hutchinson, D. Lock, E. Radcliffe, P. Locke, I. Jones, E. Blenkinsop, E. Radcliffe, E. Butt, K. Oliver, J. Blenkinsop and S. Caton.

WHIPPING BABY FAILS TO OBTAIN RESULTS

There is an age just between babyhood and the more-mentally developed fourth year (after the third birthday) that puzzles most parents.

Little Jack, we feel, has to be disciplined in some measure, but ordinary methods of procedure cannot be used because he isn't able to associate ideas. Taking something away won't do because it would not mean a thing.

One cannot say to a little two-year-old, "If you touch that plant again I'll take away your car."

And putting to bed won't do because Jack would just think it another nap. "No, no," is understood by a little baby even, but it gets to be a bore. Dripping water would be about as effective after a while.

IMPULSE CAUSES MISDEEDS

Impulse is much stronger than restraint now. One cannot call these tots naughty when they do certain things over and over after they have been told as many times not to do so. Discipline, the regular routine discipline of regular events at regular times, they accept without much struggle: rigid habit and regular hours is the keynote.

But in every home there are dozens of things coming up every day not included in the physical routine of the baby's life. He can walk, he can touch and pull and destroy. This is the in-between period that worries his mother.

Instinctively she starts to give him a few little smacks, just enough to sting a bit, so he will begin to associate an unpleasant sensation with the plant, say, or the lamp or the papers on the desk.

NURSERY IDEAL PLACE FOR HIM

Naturally, the fewer things within reach the better because then there won't be so many crises. The ideal way would be to keep him in a nursery where playthings are all legitimate and he can carry out his urges to his heart's content.

But the average home is not ideal in this respect. The poor baby is now amongst the gadgets of civilization. How are we to train him? Are the little rays wise? Will he always be a bad boy unless we start on him early?

I believe such punishment to be almost useless in babyhood. Some lessons might be retained, such as not going near the gold-fish bowl or poking a stick at the fire. He cannot, of course, see why he is spanked for doing that one thing, but he would perhaps, after a hundred repeats, associate the two items. But it would have to be often. And it would have to be about so many things. And it might have this effect too.

ILLOGICAL LOGIC

It is quite common for a little child to think he can do forbidden things as long as he is willing to take the punishment that comes after. This is logic for you. Think it out.

We are not discussing the gravity of hitting a baby here. Merely the sense of it, or the reverse. Until a child is old enough to be punished by denial, putting to bed, deprived of a privilege, or even spanked, and to know what it is all about, there is no form of discipline to take its place.

We have to be patient. We have to make life simple and easy for him. We just have to get along the best we can. If he is well and happy he won't be very bad anyway, if we do our part.

WOMAN RULES SAAR VOTE

Sarah Wambaugh Is Foremost Authority on Plebiscites

By MORRIS GILBERT

Saarbrucken.—Auburn-haired Sarah Wambaugh of Cambridge, Mass., daughter of the eminent Harvard authority on constitutional law, Professor Eugene Wambaugh, is technical boss of the biggest, most complicated, most politically vital current European problem.

The reason for this is simply that Miss Wambaugh knows more about plebiscites than anybody else on earth. When the League of Nations took the job of arranging the politicle fate of the turbulent Saar basin it sent for the doctor.

Miss Wambaugh is technical adviser and deputy commissioner of the Plebiscite Commission. If one of the three male members is absent—which often happens, naturally, often—she sits as commissioner. She is the Hoyle of the game now going on here, and it is being played according to Wambaugh.

WAR DECIDED HER INTEREST

"The war started my interest in plebiscites," Miss Wambaugh told me. "I was then executive secretary of the Massachusetts branch of the Women's Peace Party. From the start we had been working for some sort of a league of nations to solve war problems. In that connection the idea of 'self-determination' of peoples came up. That led to the thought of plebiscites. But when I looked for information about plebiscites and how to run them, there wasn't any."

So she compiled the information herself in a book for the American State Department. It assembled all the available facts about plebiscites, from the French Revolution down through 1848 and 1870—in Italy, Wallachia, the Ionian Islands, Schleswig, St. Thomas and St. John's. The book came in handy at the Peace Conference, and the Big Three at Versailles began dealing out plebiscites in Upper Silesia, Teschen, Danzig and elsewhere.

Reporting just how these plebiscites worked then became Miss Wambaugh's monumental task. Her second book, called "Plebiscites Since the World War," is in two volumes, the second being a collection of official documents.

BORN IN OHIO

"Maybe it's because I was born in Ohio that political questions naturally interested me," says Miss Wambaugh. The town was Avondale, now a suburb of Cincinnati. Both her father's and mother's families were pioneers in settling Ohio.

Miss Wambaugh's interest in politics began early. While war started her in plebiscites, peace found her a technical expert in the secretariat of the League of Nations. She came to the Saar in 1920. She lectured in America. In 1923 she visited all the plebiscite areas.

WAS PERUVIAN ADVISER

Meanwhile, on the moon packed rim of western South America, a plebiscite was looming to settle the question of whether Peru or Chile should possess the desolate, nitrate-choked region called Tacna-Arica.

The Peruvian government asked Miss Wambaugh to act as its adviser. She lived for ten months on a Peruvian steamship anchored a mile offshore from the barren coast. Every ten days a supply ship came along from Callao with water, turkeys, fruit and mails.

General Pershing and Commissioner Lassiter ran that show. It gave Miss Wambaugh first-hand knowledge of happens when two countries want the same piece of ground. She is applying that knowledge to-day.

AIDED BY SEVENTY INSPECTORS

She has about seventy people to help her in the Saar, mostly district inspectors, dotted around in towns and villages of the eight voting districts, to check voting lists, vouch for their accuracy, run the balloting, give all sides a fair deal, and keep the peace. Others form regional tribunals and a supreme court for passing on the voters' eligibility.

All these officials are neutrals—Americans, Dutch, Swiss, Norwegians, Danes, Italians, English, Luxemburgers, a New Zealander, a Spaniard, a Portuguese, a Swede and an Irishman.

Shortly before the voting on January 13, the officials will be augmented by a thousand more, to act as tellers, watchers, etc.

With them rests what Miss Wambaugh describes as the basic problem of the plebiscite—neutralization of the area. She herself is, politically speaking, the apex of neutrality. Ask a political question of Miss Wambaugh and, if she answers at all, it will be to remark how the design of Greek amphorae has affected modern tendencies in table decorations.

That is why Miss Wambaugh is in the Saar and why not only the French but the Germans begged her from the League of Nations. She issued one warning: If a single ballot box is tampered with the whole thing must be done over again.

Serial Story

Blonde Goddess

By HERBERT JENSEN

Later that night, sleeping soundly, they were awakened by the crashing of thunder. Sheet lightning flared about the skies. Huddled in the doorway of the shack that screened the entrance of the cave, they stood until the sky opened its ducts and drove them away from under the flimsy roof.

Within the cave dank with unevaporated water from the last floods and musty with bat offal, Grahame and Langton stared at each other nobly.

Resinous torches provided in anticipation of this emergency had been lighted. The thunderous booming without precluded any possibility of sleep.

"The rains are here," muttered Grahame.

"It won't be long now," replied Langton lightly. Frank noticed that his friend's face looked queerly pale on the patches his beard did not cover.

In the morning, it was Janice who told them about the curious behavior of the shkin. The girl had insisted, despite the protest of the men, that she be the high priest's attendant.

She had, however, been determined; therefore they had constructed a pallet in a corner of the inner cave for the shkin and one nearby for the girl. When the two white men, who usually slept in the outer shack, had entered the cave and lighted the torches, Janice had looked to the welfare of her charge.

She had found him, his back supported upright against the cave's wall, rigid in a state approaching catalepsy.

She had shaken his shoulder thinking him in the midst of a dream, but he had not awakened. Usually, she knew, he slept lightly. His limbs and his body were marblestiff. His face was frozen although his eyes were open but opaque.

Janice reported that it sounded like a quiet droning so imperceptible was his voice, but by concentrating she was aware that words were issuing from his parted lips; strange words that held the cadence of mystic ceremony.

"He was asleep and dreaming," Frank suggested.

Langton looked thoughtful. The two men did not press her with further comment or question, but as of one accord they made their way to the stream's edge.

The sky was sullen overhead; it held more than a hint of rain—it was a threat. The stream undoubtedly was higher, tawny with the discoloration of vegetation.

It run swiftly, definitely, and disappeared into the maw of the lower cavern leaving little sponges of yellow foam clinging to the rocky portals.

"With luck," stated Grahame staring speculatively at the stream, "we have about a week on dry ground here. After that . . ."

CHAPTER XLII

"With luck," repeated Langton, "I can be back here and get you out. With a ship I could fly from the coast to here in twenty minutes."

Frank smiled remotely. Turning on his heel he walked back to the shack. His movements thereafter were methodical.

He brought out the balsa-wood jacket and, for the time being, set it aside. He brought out two coconut shells, split and put together again and sealed with pitch.

Within them was a quantity of dried meat, matches, and—he smiled at the apparent incongruity of it—the matted pad of his book of traveler's cheques. They could be used at the coast—if ever he got there.

The two coconut shells he slipped into a bit of fibre netting he had made for them. This arrangement could be tied to the jacket float.

He put on the crude device that was to keep him afloat—with luck—for the eight or ten hours he would be swept through the unknown cavern. Although the morning was not warm beads of perspiration gathered upon his face.

It was with a straining effort of will that he banished thoughts of the accidents that might happen to him in the darkness.

Would the river be like the surface river? Would there be waterfalls, rapids, or jagged submerged rocks to tear at him as he passed? Might not whirls sweep him into blind pockets where he would thrash his way about until exhaustion claimed him?

He walked down the trail to the stream's edge. Langton, straining at the tying of the last timbers of the raft, looked up startled. Janice, coils of fibre in her hands, approached from upstream. Puzzled, she looked at the crude girth of the balsa-wood jacket.

She said in a curious voice, "Frank, what is that? What do you intend? . . ."

"Nothing doing, Frank—that's my job," said Langton quietly.

Frank's voice as he replied was level and brittle.

"Nothing you can say—or do, for that matter—will alter the plan, Billy. This is just a job I can do better than you can under the circumstances. We'll say no more about it!"

Janice made a gesture of appeal to Langton. Her face was pale beneath its tanned silkiness. "What is it Billy? What is he going to do?"

"He's going to float down the cavern to the sea and get help. If a pop bottle made it, so can he, he thinks."

The girl put the palm of her hand to her mouth. Her eyes widened. The coils of fibre over her slim shoulder fell to the ground.

"No!" she whispered. "Oh, no . . . please!"

Frank stepped into the water. His face was set. "Billy," he began, turning to his friend, "before I start, I have a few suggestions—"

Janice splashed into the water beside him. Her hands caught him by the shoulders and she pulled at him until he faced her.

"You're not going!" she exclaimed breathlessly. "You can't! You shouldn't!" She tugged at him with little desperate jerks.

"Either Billy or I must. Please, Janice. Billy will explain. We haven't much time now, since the rain. I've—"

"You mustn't . . . either you or Billy. What do you think I am! What do you think I'd be if I let you? . . ." Her voice broke on a little note of hysteria. "The raft is nearly ready. We'll all go together. Why should one of us take risks for the others? The raft will support us all—"

Gently Frank put up his arms and disengaged the girl's hands from his shoulders. He turned his face toward Langton.

"Bill, it would be a good idea, I think, to make more of these jackets to wear on the raft when the water rises. Provide yourself with a stout rope and a rock for an anchor. And a long rope with a stone to throw to the bank. You might get close enough and high enough to reach the cliff tops. I'll be back. I'll be all right—"

The girl was sobbing against him. She lifted a tear-wet face.

"Frank," she cried with choked voice, "Frank, dear. You said once you love me! As you love me, please don't go! Billy, stop him!"

"You don't know what you're saying," said Frank gently. "Billy will explain why I'm going—"

"I do! I do know what I'm saying. I love you Frank! I love you so much that I'd—Frank, I'd die if anything happened. Take me with you! We'll go together—"

His heart ached. He blinked his eyes to clear away the mistiness. He was pained that her distress had brought her to confess a love he believed she did not—could not—feel.

He pressed her gently from him. He backed into the water. She strove to follow. Step by step she waded deeper, still facing him. Over his shoulder he sent a glance to Langton—a glance both helpless and full of appeal.

Langton hobbled into the water beside them. Gently but with firmness he took her by the arm. Trance-like she stared at Frank who backed away toward midstream. The water swirled above his waist.

Janice's face was dazed; pain showed in her eyes, but with Langton's hand upon her arm she made no move to follow Frank. The water eddied under his crude lifebelt. He was floating.

Swiftly the current caught him. He saw the bank and the figures of the man and girl recede. As the darkening shadow of the cavern's mouth fell upon him, he saw Janice turn her head suddenly and bury her face against the shoulder of her companion, as if she could not support the sight of his disappearance.

Langton lifted his hand and dropped it. It was like a salute.

PIANO SOLOIST WITH SYMPHONY

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Eugene Ormandy, with Rudolf Serkin, noted American pianist, as soloist, will feature an all-Tschaikowsky programme in a broadcast over the nationwide Columbia network, from 12.15 to 2.00 p.m., P.S.T., to-morrow.

Miss Norton will play Tschaikowsky's "Piano Concerto in B Flat Minor," one of the most romantic and melodious works of this Russian genius. The score was dedicated originally to the great pianist Nikolai Rubinstein, who thought the work so unkindly that Tschaikowsky later dedicated it to the conductor and pianist, Hans von Bulow. Since then this masterpiece has become a concert favorite the world over.

Ormandy will direct the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra first in the picturesque "Marche Slav," following the concerto with the "Fifth Symphony in E Minor." The "Marche Slav" was composed for a concert in Moscow, November, 1877, for the benefit of soldiers wounded in the war between Turkey and Serbia. The principal subject is based upon a Serb folksong which later gives way to a brilliant declamation by the entire orchestra of the old Russian National Hymn. The "Fifth Symphony" is written in Tschaikovsky's most melodious vein, full of an even greater range of strength and delicacy than is found in most of his symphonic works.

The concert will be heard here over stations KOL, KVI and KSL.

Hansoms Replace Taxis in Warsaw

Canadian Press Cable from Riga

Warsaw, Jan. 10.—Taxicabs are gradually disappearing from the Polish capital and horse-drawn hansom cabs are coming back into their own.

The economic crisis is blamed for a decline in taxicabs from 2,016 last year to 1,943 this year, while horse cabs increased from 1,489 to 1,520. Horses also are supplanting automobile trucks. Horse-drawn vehicles increased from 3,319 to 3,411.

COOKERY AND MUSIC UNITE

Practical cookery and smart musical entertainment will be combined for the morning radio audience in a half hour show when Frances Lee Barton's new programme goes on the air over an NBC coast-to-coast network at 11.30 a.m., P.S.T., to-morrow.

The Kitchen Party, as the new series will be known, will feature the well-known cooking authority and a cast of popular musical entertainers, including Al and Lee Reiser, are piano team; Jimmy Wilkinson, baritone; Warren Hull, musical comedy master of ceremonies, and others to be selected in weekly broadcasts from the NBC Radio City studios under the sponsorship of General Foods.

A prominent feminine soloist now is being selected to share time with Mrs. Barton, and other members of the cast also are well known. Jimmy Wilkinson, a recent audition winner, is considered one of radio's most promising young singers, and Warren Hull will be remembered as Joe Cook's leading man in "Rain or Shine."

The Reisers, Al and Lee, are the ivory tickling cousins who have made the family name synonomous with harmony in vaudeville theatres throughout the country.

KPO and KGMO are among the NBC stations in the west broadcasting this programme.

Votes Recorded By Electricity

Stockholm, Jan. 10.—Voting in the Swedish Riksdag will soon be modernized. Members of the two houses of parliament will not even have to raise their hands in order to register their "ayes" or "nayes." Instead, as the result of a bill passed Tuesday, all a member need do to cast his vote is to press a button.

The Riksdag is to have electrical apparatus installed which will work so swiftly that an entire vote may be conducted and tabulated within sixty seconds.

CHILLIWACK HAS BANK BALANCE

Canadian Press

Chilliwack, B.C., Jan. 10.—The municipality of Chilliwack closed its books for 1934 with a bank balance of $15,000, more than $7,000 of which was from tax arrears collected during the year, Collector S. Leslie Brice reported to the council. Revenue showed small gains in practically every department as compared with 1933 collections, he said.

Uncle Wiggily's Big Ball

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Though Uncle Wiggily was a rabbit gentleman he very often acted as though he was still a boy rabbit. He wasn't at all grown up as his wife and Nurse Jane wished he was. Many times Mr. Longears would play tricks and laugh at them and twinkle his pink nose until you might have thought he was Baby Bunty.

One day, when he was feeling very young and frisky and full of tricks, Uncle Wiggily hopped through the woods and over the fields that were covered with snow.

"This snow is very soft and sticky," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "It is just right for making snowballs. It packs well."

Sometimes, you know, snow is very dry and hard so it will not pack into balls. But when the weather gets warmer the snow melts a bit. Then it is wet and soft and makes lovely balls.

"I'll make some snowballs now and throw them around," said Uncle Wiggily. "My wife isn't here to tell me to stop, nor is Nurse Jane. And none of my little rabbit girls and boys are here to laugh at me for making snowballs. I'll do it!"

GOOD SNOWBALL MAKER

All the little rabbits were in the Hollow Tree School reciting their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher. So Uncle Wiggily picked up some snow, rounded it into a ball between his paws, and threw it at a tree. The tree didn't mind being snowballed. The tree only waved its branches and seemed to laugh as the wind blew on it. The snowball was broken to bits, but the snowball didn't mind, either.

"Ho! I'll make another!" shouted Uncle Wiggily, hopping about in joy. He felt younger than ever after he had made a dozen small snowballs and tossed them about. Then, as he saw how well the snow was packed, the bunny gentleman said:

"I'm going to make a big ball, a snowball as tall as I am."

The rabbit gentleman wasn't very big but he was strong and a good snowball maker. He began at once.

First he made a small ball, the kind that can be thrown about. This ball he rolled along in the snow and at each roll the small ball picked up more snow which stuck to it. At first the lump of snow was only as large as a baseball. But when Uncle Wiggily had rolled it around five or six times it became as large as a football.

"I'll make it bigger than that!" said the bunny gentleman. Soon the ball was as large around as a baby carriage wheel. Then it grew until it was as large as the wheel on an automobile.

"But I'll make it bigger yet!" said Uncle Wiggily, and he kept on rolling it in the wet and sticky snow.

BANG! AGAINST THE SCHOOL

In a short time the ball was as large as a whole, small automobile, like a rabbit gentleman's auto, of course. And now it was hard work for Uncle Wiggily to push the ball along. But he did, and at each push or roll the ball grew bigger. At last it was on top of the hill.

"Now I'll give the ball a push and let it roll down hill!" said Mr. Longears. "When it gets to the bottom it will be very big."

Down the hill rolled the snowball, growing bigger and bigger. And then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily saw the big ball was rolling straight for the Hollow Tree School.

"It will roll against the door of the school and stop it up so the children can't get out!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Whoa, snowball! Stop!"

But the big snowball didn't stop. It rolled bang against the front door of the Hollow Tree School and stopped it shut. Uncle Wiggily was worried. But the Lady Mouse Teacher sent the animal boys out by the back door and they shoveled the big snowball away, so no harm was done. Everybody laughed at the bunny gentleman's big snowball and so did he.

And next, if the postage stamp doesn't stick a pin in the peanut shell, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the letter dog.

TOURIST TONE RINGS BETTER

Travel Indices For 1935 Season Most Promising, Says N. R. DesBrisay

"We look for as good a tourist year as that, if not better," said N. R. DesBrisay, C.P.R. assistant passenger traffic manager, Winnipeg, following his arrival in Victoria to-day.

Mr. DesBrisay spoke encouragingly of the improved tone in business in Eastern Canada, basing his observations on investigations made during his recent visit to Montreal.

The various travel agencies are receiving early inquiries from prospective travelers and the indications point to good business for the coming season. The expectations are that the volume of travel through the Canadian Rockies will be maintained and that a large percentage of people will go to Alaska this year.

Mr. DesBrisay said he did not wish to convey the impression that the general volume of travel would be abnormally heavy this season, but the usual travel barometers gave prospects of a steady movement, and it was possible that an improvement would be shown over last season, which was a particularly good one compared with former years.

SAME SET-UP

"The same set-up as last summer will be maintained in the coast service of the company, and should the tourist business develop beyond our present expectations, we will be prepared to cope with it," said Mr. DesBrisay.

Mr. DesBrisay is making a periodical trip of inspection through his territory and is discussing business matters with James Macfarlane, district passenger agent, and Capt. R. W. Murray, manager of the B.C. Coast Service. He will leave to-morrow for the east.

STOCKDILL RETURNS

C. E. Stockdill, assistant to the C.P.R. vice-president in charge of western lines, Winnipeg, is expected to arrive in Victoria on Saturday. Mr. Stockdill expected to arrive in Vancouver to-day from Winnipeg and will address the transportation and customs bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade to-morrow on "The Outlook for 1935."

E. F. Mathews, general manager Canadian Pacific hotels, Montreal, who has been in the city during the last five weeks, plans to leave to-night for the east.

Election Stand Is Reaffirmed

Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association Will Press For Economy

The position of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association in regard to the coming municipal election was reasserted at a meeting yesterday evening. The association again unanimously stated their endorsement of Reeve Alex Lockley and Councillor Albert Heald for re-election to their present offices.

Support of F. G. Eaton and T. H. Morgan as candidates for council seats and of Major George Stephen and R. J. Stewart for the school board was also again asserted.

George Kinch of 1206 Carden Street, was named as aspirant for police commissionership.

At a previous meeting in December, when candidates for the municipal council and school board were chosen, it was discovered that the balloting had been irregular, votes having been cast by persons not members of the association.

HOPE TO LOWER RATES

Candidates who have the backing of the association were reminded by Bishop G. E. Lloyd, president, that in case of election they would be expected to press for economy in all branches, in a concerted drive to lower taxation rates.

Bishop Lloyd expressed the hope that rates could be lowered by as much as six mills with careful economy planning.

The president also stated his opinion that all resolutions concerning finances introduced before the municipal council should be read aloud for the benefit of all councillors and of any ratepayers present at the session.

Considerable discussion took place prior to the adjournment of the meeting on the subject of the alleged high figure and inequality of assessments on property.

DOUBLE AMOUNT OF ADVERTISING

Greater Appropriation For Community Campaign of Northwest Cities

Despite the economy that was expected in the northwest joint community advertising campaign is expected to be voted when the Puget Sound and British Columbia Associated control booking agency in Seattle to-morrow.

Portland, Ore., has announced its intention of joining the other cities in the northwest in the advertising plan which has been carried on with success for a number of years and as a result a new setup involving a change in name and appropriations will be necessary.

Victoria will be represented by Mayor David Leeming, who is president of the organization; Harold Husband, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and George I. Warren, publicity commissioner, E. E. Adams, president of the Vancouver Publicity Bureau; Brenton S. Brown, director, and C. E. Webster, publicity commissioner, will complete the British Columbia delegation.

Portland will be represented by J. N. Laing, treasurer of the Oil-to-Oregon Association, and H. Wilcox of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

SHORT WAVE HAS BANQUET

The Victoria Short Wave Club held its annual banquet on Wednesday evening in the Shelbourne Street Hall. It was attended by members, ex-members and guests.

The banquet was followed by competitions for which prizes were given by Vancouver and Victoria radio dealers and E. J. Lawrence, J. Hepburn Jr., and E. E. Cooper. The catering was done by Mesdames Dawson, Cooper, and Lawrence and was much appreciated.

Prizes were won by the following: T. C. Brown, L. E. Cuthbertson, R. E. Brown, E. R. Hough, J. R. Archer, E. E. Cooper, F. Arnold and C. Williams. Curiously enough, the latest amateur to be assigned a call in Victoria, C. Williams, walked away with the first prize for high-speed code copying.

J. A. Casilio was presented with a cup, an award posted by the club for the first member, amateur, to effect two-way contact with an English amateur and show confirmation from the English operator. This Mr. Casilio accomplished on October 21 last on the seven megacycle amateur band. The presentation was made by E. E. Cooper, president of the Victoria Short Wave Club.

The party left South Africa the latter part of December after carrying on negotiations and promotion work which is expected to boost the province's lumber trade with that dominion. They were given a fine welcome and experienced cordial relationships there.

Stopping in England on the way home, the party is expected to undertake further promotion work in that market which has developed remarkably in the last two years.

J. H. McDonald of Vancouver is the head of the delegation, which includes F. E. Cornthill, chief forester of the British Columbia government. They are expected back here next month.

POLICE ALERT IN SAAR AREA

Associated Press

Saarbruecken, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 10.—The international army sent here by the League of Nations made final arrangements to-day to deal with mass demonstrations expected to accompany the Saar Plebiscite Sunday.

British and Italian tank and armored car companies, ordered to co-operate in case of necessity, were sent through joint manoeuvres near Dillingen.

Eighty of the fierce looking cars, armed with machine guns, were ordered to travel over part of the territory to acquaint the troops with their duties and to serve as a "practical warning."

TWO SECTIONS

A drive for division of the Saar into two distinct political and geographical sections should the vote favor a return to Germany, as is anticipated by observers, was launched by Anti-Nazis.

In a protest sent the League they said the latter "must take existing Nazi terrorism into consideration when it interprets the final result of the plebiscite."

Although partition of the area was not specifically requested, leaders of the Anti-Nazis admitted this was what they meant. Nazis were blamed for recent disorders in the territory.

A peak crew of Nazis was reported while a Nazi was stabbed, allegedly by two Communists, at Altenwald where a pro-German meeting was broken up.

RAILROAD MEN SEEK CHANGES

Greater Income Tax Exemptions, No More Relief Camps, Are Urged

Greater exemptions on the provincial income tax with an increased levy in the higher brackets if necessary, abolition of the relief camp system, greater benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Act and cheaper school textbooks were among the recommendations submitted to provincial cabinet this morning by a delegation of railroad men.

The delegation consisted of T. J. O'Neill, Kamloops, for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. E. Haigh of Revelstoke, for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen; A. H. McLean of Spence's Bridge, for the Order of Railroad Telegraphers; A. Sutherland of Nelson, for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and J. A. Shister of Vancouver, for the Order of Railroad Conductors.

Consideration of their requests was promised by the government.

With respect to the income tax, the railroad men proposed that all incomes not in excess of $1,500 for single men and $3,000 for married men be exempt from taxation with a $600 exemption for each dependant. Taxes on incomes over $3,000 could be raised to make up the revenue.

In abolishing the relief camps, the committee urged, the government would remove single unemployed men from the care of the National Defence Department and substitute a programme of work for fair wages.

If it was proposed to open the Workmen's Compensation Act this session, the delegation urged the following provisions be included: Funeral benefits of $150, widows' allowance $40 a month, $10 a month for dependant children of widows or invalid widowers, $40 a month for dependant parents, rehabilitation funds established with a maximum expenditure of $50,000 a year to assist in housing housetops of injured workmen, 75 per cent compensation for injured workmen with a minimum of $13.50 a week and other changes.

Uniformity of textbooks in the four western provinces was urged, as well as lower costs for textbooks and less frequent changing.

Abolition of level crossings, vision and other tests for auto drivers, and a provision that all motor vehicles stop at railroad crossings were advocated as a means of reducing accidents at crossings.

Tax changes in the brief covered payment legislation for buses and trucks, urging a transport commission to control them and more stringent taxation and regulation of operation.

Other points urged were that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway should be brought under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Inspector of Safety Appliances, and that the administration of the Mothers' Pensions Act be again placed under the Workmen's Compensation Board, and the pensions be paid on the same basis as now paid to dependants of injured workmen under the compensation act.

HEAR OF VISIT TO AL CAPONE

this before the courts. It is carried along on a wave of prevarication."

"This business is not carried on orthodox lines," Mr. Sookin explained.

However, Mr. Sookin added by the quoted words of Mr. Sokol that "just as there is honor among thieves, so there must be honor among bootleggers."

"Well, there doesn't seem to have been very much in this case," said Mr. Justice McQuarrie. "The trouble was that Eastman was too easy."

Mr. Justice McPhillips declared there was no doubt the Vancouver people were the original "projectors" of the transaction.

Chief Justice Macdonald asked whether it did not narrow down to the question of whether Mr. Sokol, in making transaction, was the agent of the Reifelst? If he were, then the forwarding company was liable.

"What happened to this musty liquor? Into whose possession did it go?" Mr. Justice McPhillips asked.

Mr. Sookin replied that according to instructions it was shipped back to the coast from St. Louis to Mr. Woods of Seattle.

Martin Griffin, K.C., who with W. F. Brougham is conducting the case for the Pacific Forwarding Company, which won in the Supreme Court, objected to Mr. Sookin introducing from another distinct case evidence having to do with a more detailed disposition of the liquor after Mr. Eastman found it "musty."

The chief justice wanted to know which Al Capone it was, when Mr. Sookin brought up the incident of Mr. Sokol's visit to the office in Chicago.

Mr. Sookin assured the chief justice that it was "the" Al Capone, and referred to the transcript containing the verbatim report of the examination of Mr. Sokol by J. E. Bird, who was counsel with Mr. Sookin for Mr. Eastman.

Mr. Bird questioned Mr. Sokol regarding his duties in Chicago in connection with the sale of "goods" for the Vancouver company. Mr. Sokol explained that whenever he got a customer, he had to rustle around and go after the money himself.

"I called up Harry Reifel from New York City one time," Mr. Sokol was set down on the record as testifying under oath. "I said 'Harry, I got a message from Al Capone in Chicago.' He said, 'All right, go right ahead.' I came to Vancouver and I shipped the merchandise, then I went to Capone to get the money.

"When I walked in to see Al Capone—you have to go through about thirty bodyguards—I went through about twelve rooms and they searched me at every door, and by the time I got there I was all in. I got in the room and when I walked in Al Capone's office Al Capone was sitting here. I walked in at this door and two men were at each door, at every door, and another couple was checking and there was a door here and a door there.

"And you should have seen their machine guns. They showed me some lots of guns up there and said to me 'These are silent pistols, when you shoot you don't hear them.'

"Well, I wasn't interested at the time. All I was interested in was the money.

"Al said to me, 'Do you want a drink?.' I said no, I don't drink. He said, 'How do you want your money?' I said, 'I would like to have the money in cash.' And he gave me the money, instructed four of his men to go to the left and right of me, and I guess I was afraid—he gave me the money in cash, thousand dollar bills, and instructed his men. There was $15,000.

"And they took me down to the station, to the Union Depot, and when they were taking me down in the car I was shivering because there was a lot of guns, and if anything had happened I would have been finished. So when they took me down to the station into the depot, I grabbed a cab and went down to the airport, took a plane and went to St. Louis and I collected some more money in St. Louis. I chartered a plane and came into Winnipeg. When I arrived in Winnipeg I took the train and proceeded to Vancouver. I brought into Vancouver about $35,000 in cash in my possession and turned the money into the office.

"Then on another occasion, I arranged with two men in New York to come up here. One fellow is killed to-day, a fellow by the name of B. Rosenberg."

"How did he die?" Mr. Sokol was asked.

"Well," he replied, "he was shot. The people are square when you do square business, but if you do the wrong thing you will get it. Eastman has paid the company and he is entitled to have his money. I have done all business for Mr. Reifel and they kept me responsible and that is why I am in court."

The appeal is continuing.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

THE FIRST REAL CANADIAN MONEY

History relates that Canada, in 1817, "was too poor to afford the luxury of a metallic circulating medium, and the development of trade and agriculture was hampered by the lack of facilities for exchange."

American money, also British and French and some Spanish and Portuguese, was used—all subject to fluctuating rates of exchange and causing monetary confusion. There was no Canadian money, either coin or paper.

But in 1817, when the Bank of Montreal was started, its directors—merchants who knew what Canadian business urgently needed—immediately provided a paper currency (the Bank's own bills in small denominations) and later copper coins. These Bank of Montreal issues were the first real Canadian money.

Through 117 years since then, the Bank of Montreal's notes have performed a useful function, as Canadian business has grown from small beginnings to its present extensive proportions. These notes have provided a sound, dependable and elastic currency, their volume automatically expanding and contracting with the changing demands of trade.

Notes of the Bank now in circulation amount to $35,000,000, or about one-fourth of the entire commercial bank note currency of Canada.

The Bank's resources ($759,000,000) are likewise about one-fourth of the total resources of the Canadian commercial banks. These figures indicate the extent to which the Bank of Montreal participates in Canadian business activity.

FAVOR CHANGE IN CHAIRMAN

Trustee P. E. George Introduces Move to Rotate School Board Leadership

Victoria's school board yesterday evening heard notice of motion from Trustee P. E. George aimed to change the chairmanship of the board every two years.

In a explanation given following the meeting, Trustee George stated there was no personal feeling in the suggestion. He believed, however, rotation of the chairmanship should be instituted for the benefit of the board at large to permit the injection of a new outlook on the problems which come before that body.

He worded his statement as follows:

"I hereby give notice that at the next regular meeting of the board, I shall move that Section 1 of the by-laws of the board be amended by the addition of the following clause, denominated Clause V:

"'A trustee shall not be eligible for re-election as chairman of the board for the year immediately following two continuous years' service in that office.'"

PLUNKETT BACKS REFORM POLICY

Victoria Member Joins in Premier Bennett's Plan; Tells of Recovery

Premier Bennett's new constitution pre-election programme calling for control of business, regulated hours of work and wages, reorganization of the civil service, easing of farm debts, ordering of economic life under an advisory council and an advanced degree of general socialization of Canada, was endorsed in a sweeping way yesterday evening by D. R. Plunkett, M.P., before the meeting of 300 members of the Victoria Conservative Association under President Hugh Allen.

Mr. Plunkett praised Mr. Bennett for the way he had brought the country out of the worst of the depression, described how he had successfully solved each of the problems, how he had rebuilt Canada's internal and external trade and given the country brighter prospects for the future.

"The outstanding fact to-day is that Canada is financially sound, can meet its obligations and with 10,000,000 person is leading all nations in the degree of recovery shown to date," Mr. Plunkett said. "The new reform platform makes an especial appeal to youth and the best assurance it can be carried out lies in the Bennett government's record in the last few years."

Mr. Plunkett pointed out that the country had come through the depression without a single bank failure on record, with the credit of the four western provinces upheld and their external obligations met by Ottawa, with savings effected in railway operations, with commercial stability buttressed at every point, with the Federal Government saving $60,000,000 in controllable expenses and $14,618,000 more in annual interest outlays through refunding.

The evils resulting from huge mergers and watered stock had now been redressed by drastic changes in company law, he said. The price spreads inquiry and the creation of the Central Bank were evidence of Mr. Bennett's sincerity and showed the line of action that had already been entered upon for the future.

Senator R. F. Green praised Mr. Plunkett as one of the outstanding members of the House of Commons, and told how he had got for Victoria the appropriation for the construction of the new Marine Building. The Senator also gave his personal endorsement of the new Bennett socialization policy.

MUSIC

Music during the evening was furnished by a piano-accordion band under Ernest Fullerton with Reg Gerard, James Haggart, Harvey Godfrey, Jack Quinn, Dick Ash and Reg Saunders. Florence Neale, accompanied by Mrs. J. Cameron, gave a novel musical programme. Mrs. W. C. Hornby in charge of the tea and social arrangements was assisted by Mrs. R. Parr, and Mrs. D. Fetheridge, Mrs. F. Fetheridge, Mrs. D. Burrows and Mrs. L. Maynard.

Gymnasium For School Favored

Duncan, Jan. 10.—The study group of the Duncan Parent-teacher Association met at the home of Mrs. G. Stephenson Tuesday afternoon.

Plans for future programmes were discussed. The next meeting will be held January 22 at the home of Mrs. W. R. Smythe, when Mrs. Girvin will read a play.

Mrs. Jennie Macdonald, speaker for the afternoon, gave an instructive paper on "Discipline for Children of Pre-school Age."

Mrs. Macdonald spoke again on the probability of a fund being started to build a school gymnasium by public effort. The study group went on record as being in favor of such a plan.

STRAWBERRY VALE

The members were urged to attend the Victoria Presbyterial which will be held in the Metropolitan Church on January 22, 24 and 25. Mrs. W. Allison was elected to represent the auxiliary at the general committee meeting to be held this week in order that final arrangements can be made for the Presbyterial session.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Pringle, Burnside Road.

Miss Dorothy Hodgson returned to Vancouver this week after visiting with her mother, Mrs. D. Hodgson, Delmar Avenue.

SEAGULLS

FOR SEVERAL days I have been watching an old gentleman who stands on the Causeway for an hour or so every morning just looking into the harbor, with a look of complete contentment on his face. I wondered what he saw to please him. My curiosity finally got the better of me and I stopped to-day and asked him.

He said it was the seagulls. He said he had lived in the Kootenays all his life and for years he had read about the seagulls but he had never seen any. He had long ago decided if he ever got enough money saved to retire on that he would come to the Coast where he could take a look at the seagulls.

He said he never got tired of looking at them. He thought they were the most beautiful things he had ever seen. The grace of them as they wheeled over the water, the flash of the sun on their white breasts, was a sight, he said, unequalled even by the grandeur of the Rockies, where he used to live. It was no wonder that Victoria told people to follow the birds, but what surprised him was that nobody here seemed to notice the birds at all.

As we talked, watching the seagulls wheel and soar over the harbor, hundreds of Victorians hurried by on the Causeway. Not one turned to look at the seagulls. They were thinking of something more elevating, no doubt. They were probably thinking of the depression.

INVESTOR

I SEE," said Mrs. Noggins, settling herself beside me on the way to town this morning, "as how all the governments and the cities is goin' to rejoice the interest on their bonds. The idea, as I get it, is that when you owe money to somebody else you got to pay it, but a bondholder he don't count because he's rich anyway and probably crooked or he wouldn't 'ave no bonds, so 'e don't count. It's got now to a body is ashamed to admit he's got a bond for fear 'e'll get put in jail or lynched or somethin'.

"Well, I'm telling you private, I've got two, but don't tell nobody. I got 'em durin' the war. Along about that time the governint sent fellers around and told everybody it was their sacred juty to buy the government's bonds to win the war. Well, me and the old man 'ad saved a couple of thousand along of twenty year. So we bought two bonds, and after a while we traded 'em in on a new model when they come due. The first ones 'ad interest at five and a 'alf per cent. The second ones was three and a 'alf. We get $70 a year out of 'em and it pays the taxes and a bit over.

"But now they're talkin' about cutting the interest in 'alf. That'd give us $35 a year and 'ow we'd pay the taxes then don't ask me. They're sayin' the bond 'olders is all Shylocks and cut throats wot is fattenin' on the poor, and sometimes, after I hin readin' the speeches of this feller McGeer wot he says, why, I feel like I couldn't 'ardly go outdoors and look people in the eye.

"They say it's fair to everyone to 'ave the interest cut. The feller with a million in bonds 'e takes the same cut like we do to nobody 'as no kick comin'. But if you got a million and they cut it in 'alf, you still got quite a lot, ain'tchu? I mean, you can get by if you economize like. But if you only got $70 comin' in and you cut it in 'alf, well, you know it, don'tchu?

"Well, I spose, after readin' what Gerry and the others is sayin' we ought to be glad they're only goin' to cut the interest in 'alf. If they done right, I spose they'd cut our neck in 'alf for 'avin' saved our money and lent it to the governint to win the war. I'm goin' to join the C.C.F., that's wot."

WOULD REMOVE NUISANCE FEE

The two-dollar fee charged against all students of Victoria High school for supplies they use during the year is expected to be abolished during 1935.

At yesterday evening's meeting of the school board, trustees generally favored the elimination of the charge which, while nominally listed against each student, has not in the last year or two been paid by more than half the student body.

George Deane, municipal inspector, explained the reason for the charge. It was supposed to help defray the costs of paper and other supplies used by the students and was collected by the teacher of each class. He pointed to the difficulty of the teachers to make the collections in certain cases and moved that it be removed from the estimates as a "nuisance fee." Last year it amounted to $928.56. With the temporary endorsement of the board, it was eliminated from the list of estimated receipts.

PLAN LECTURE AT FAIRFIELD

"National Parks of the West and Their Wild Inhabitants" will be the subject of an address to be given by Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry at an open meeting of the Fairfield United Church Men's Club on Monday, January 21, at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be illustrated with 100 beautifully coloured lantern slides and will be augmented by a programme of musical entertainment. The slides include views of scenery, flora and fauna to be found in the parks. A collection will be taken.

SYSTEM WITH SECURITY NEED

Don Smith Addresses C.C.F. Meeting at Royal Oak; to Meet at Keating

"The First Steps in a Planned Economy" was the topic of an address by Don Smith at St. Michael's Hall, Royal Oak, on Tuesday. He substituted for Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the opposition, who was unable to be present. Mr. Smith discussed the problems and methods of a C.C.F. government on taking control. The roads leading to farm, factory, business and professions were without hope for the people, he said. A new system, with security as the main objective, must be built.

Mr. Smith expressed approval, as have the C.C.F., of compensating present owners of industry on taking over, to ease the transition period to the Co-operative Commonwealth.

"Every time you enter a store, remember the figures 14, 20 and 40," he said. "The 14 represents the cost of useful labor in an article, the 20 the waste in getting you to buy it in preference to another equally good, and the 40 the price you pay for the goods worth 14. Under co-operative production and distribution this spread would be eliminated."

The speaker pointed out that the greater part of the present distributive workers must eventually be fitted into the productive machine, when distribution assumes its proper relation to production under the new efficiency of co-operation, instead of competition.

James Nicholson, the chairman, spoke briefly on "The Inevitableness of the New Order."

R. M. McIntosh told why he was in this movement.

Two vocal solos by Mrs. R. M. McIntosh were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Bryce acted as accompanist.

Members of the Royal Oak C.C.F. Club, under whose auspices the meeting was held, held a short business meeting at the close.

COWICHAN BRANCH, CANADIAN LEGION

Duncan, Jan. 10.—The annual meeting of the Cowichan branch, Canadian Legion, was held in the club room Monday evening. Reports were given by the various committees, that of the relief committee being the most outstanding.

A pleasing gesture from the members was the presentation by Comrade Duncan to Comrade Kinch of a carved Indian totem pole, suitably inscribed, in appreciation of his services since the inception of the branch, and also the presentation to Comrade Hugh Savage, M.P.P., and to Comrade Hitchcock in appreciation of their assistance in the erection of the Mount Prevost Memorial Cairn. Mr. Savage was presented with a scale model of an Indian racing canoe, and Mr. Hitchcock had a war canoe, both suitably inscribed. Comrade Rev. A. Blackleger was installed as president for 1935.

The report of the pensions committee showed that pension cases are periodically sent to the provincial office.

The provincial report showed the branch in first-class standing, due to the co-operation of the various committees. The retiring president, Comrade E. W. Bomford, gave a report of the year's work.

The new president, under authority of a by-law, added three new members to the executive, Comrades Hilliard, Codville and Doerman.

The meeting voted that a letter of congratulation be sent to Col. W. W. Foster on his appointment as Chief of Police of Vancouver.

NANAIMO WILL HAVE ELECTION

No Opposition For Mayor Barsby, But Aldermanic Seats Contested

Nanaimo, Jan. 10.—With six candidates in the field for aldermen and four candidates for school trustee, an election will be necessary.

Mayor John Barsby is still the only candidate for the chief magistrate of the city. Police Commissioner James McKinnell's term expires this year and he is offering himself for re-election.

Aldermanic candidates seeking re-election are Joseph Dixon, Sam Drake and George Muir. New aspirants seeking seats are Daniel Campbell, George Moore and William J. Grieves. Trustees who will seek the suffrage of voters are John Shaw, George Muir and John Kerr. George Moore is the new candidate for school trustee.

Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 10.—The thirst of the United States returned more than $1,000,000 a day in liquor taxes during the calendar year 1934.

A statement issued yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau placed total collections at $374,508,252.50 for the year.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Does The Work

Few Piles sufferers know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories so often may not give lasting relief and why cutting sometimes removes the pile tumor but leaves its exciting cause which may create a recurrence.

Your Doctor knows that bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. For this an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it eliminates the circulation, and acts to relieve congestion.

So isn't it better, when suffering ends and before considering operation, to try this internal remedy when Shoppe and Vancouver Drug Stores invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with money-back if not partially satisfied with the help one bottle gives. (Adv.)

JEAN HARLOW AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Popular Star Has Leading Role in "The Girl From Missouri," Opening To-day

Eddie Chapman was determined to marry a millionaire. And Jean Harlow, in Eddie, accomplished her mission in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "The Girl From Missouri," which opened to-day at the Playhouse Theatre.

As Eddie, Miss Harlow gives one of her finest performances in a role that is admirably suited to her talents. The deft manner in which she takes care of the characterization is very reminiscent of those earlier successes that brought her stardom—"Red-Headed Woman," "Hold Your Man" and "Red Dust."

Showing as a second feature on the same programme is Claude Rains in "Crime Without Passion."

GET TO BED TO CHECK COLD OR INFLUENZA

You Can Defeat This Common Winter Disease With Complete Rest in Warm and Well-ventilated Room

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

When you are attacked by a severe cold or by influenza, the first thing to do is to get to bed.

The room should be airy and the ventilation should include a free current of air without chilling.

If both ventilation and warmth cannot be obtained at the same time, ventilation is more important, and warmth should be provided by proper coverings on the bed and use of screens to keep off drafts.

The number and weight of bed clothes should not be determined by your decision as to whether you feel cold or warm.

The temperature of the room is a most important factor. Your own temperature can be controlled by use of sponging. Fairly frequent sponging with lukewarm water will take down a fever.

Do not try to feed a cold and crowd your stomach with food until you are uncomfortable; neither is it desirable to starve a cold.

Persons with influenza and with colds must have plenty of liquids, taken preferably rather warm, but cold water may be had if you cannot take water in any other way.

Of great importance in such cases is relief from discomfort and pain, and plenty of sleep. To get plenty of sleep and relief from pain it may be necessary for the doctor to prescribe suitable remedies.

You should not, however, attempt to doctor yourself against pain and cold, because you may do yourself more harm than good.

For too many people are incapacitated to-day because they got up too soon after having had a severe cold or influenza. The result has been a weakened heart, unable to survive even the stresses of ordinary life.

No person with a cold should get out of bed until he has been free from fever for at least two days. If he has suffered more than a week from influenza, accompanied by fever, he may have to stay in bed three or four days, or even an additional week before getting back to work.

The doctor watches the pulse and the competency of the heart very carefully. You should be up at first only a small period of time, and this may be gradually increased if the heart and the muscles respond satisfactorily.

At the same time, the diet is gradually increased, and the doctor looks particularly at the condition of the blood. It may be necessary to prescribe plenty of liver and kidneys, and even additional iron to build the blood up to its normal level after any depressing disease like influenza.

At least a week or two after you get up and go back to work, you should have a complete physical examination to determine that your heart and kidneys, and particularly your lungs, are without any defects or complications as a result of the disease.

If any such condition is discovered, prompt measures should be taken to handle it in its incipient stage, to avoid more permanent disease and disability.

JOE E. BROWN AT COLUMBIA

With all its color, its action, its blare and heraldry, the circus—both as seen in the ring and as lived behind the tent drops—will be shown on the screen of the Columbia Theatre, where Joe E. Brown will appear in the First National picture "The Circus Clown" to-day.

One of the greatest comedians in the history of filmdom, who has actually lived the life he depicts, for Joe E. Brown was a circus acrobat as a boy, Brown has been given a vehicle that allows his marked talents full sway, and, supported by an exceptionally capable company, including the entire cast of Al G. Barnes circus, he brings to his audience a screamingly funny comedy that is replete with love interest, thrills and action, and which at times has touches of pathos that stop the laughter with a hint of tears.

Also being shown as a second feature is "Midnight," with Sidney Fox.

MINING LEADS B.C. ONWARD

Proper Outlook on Investment in Mines Urged By Chamber President

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 10.—The mining industry is gradually leading British Columbia out of the depression, stated Frank E. Woodside, manager, in his annual address to the British Columbia Chamber of Mines.

No fewer than 11,500 men are gaining a livelihood from the mines, to whom are paid $18,000,000 in wages annually, Mr. Woodside said. Purchases of equipment and supplies by mining companies are estimated at $8,000,000 a year.

It rested with the mining fraternity to retain the faith of the public, said the speaker. "For the most part brokers and promoters have done their best in this regard. But there is the unscrupulous individual only too willing to promote and sell stock in any company or syndicate regardless of the merit of the property, the intention being to 'mine' the public rather than the mine," said Mr. Woodside. The public must be educated to forget chalk marks on stock boards and look to dividends. People must be taught that when they buy stock in a new mining promotion it should be with the intention of holding that stock for a period of at least two years in the hope of eventually receiving profits."

In this connection Mr. Woodside said the Chamber of Mines had every facility to supply reliable information on mining, including provincial and Dominion government annual reports, besides numerous other publications, and a staff well versed on the subject.

DOMINION BRIDGE

Montreal, Jan. 10 (Canadian Press).—Dominion Bridge Company Limited yesterday reported total income of $[illegible] and a balance after income tax and directors' fees of $[illegible] compared with $[illegible] after similar deductions in the first year ended October 31, 1933.

AT PLAYHOUSE

CIRCUS STARS ARE FEATURED

All that goes to make a circus a favorite with grown-ups and youngsters alike will be seen in the revue, "Circus Days," which will open the Victoria engagement of two days at the Empire Theatre to-morrow afternoon. It will be presented twice to-morrow evening and three times on Saturday.

There is much to commend this revue to Empire Theatre patrons. It is one of the most novel revues to take the road this season and has attracted large audiences in all its stops across the continent from New York and up the coast from Los Angeles.

Kathleen and Jimmie will be featured on the flying trapeze, while the stage orchestra plays the now famous "Man on the Flying Trapeze." These two artists are said to be extremely good and have had experience with Ringling Brothers' Circus.

Another featured number on the programme will be given by the Aerial Healeys, who dance on the silver wire. This is also an act said to be worthy of special mention.

Severely cleverly trained and brilliant animals will also been seen on the programme. Happy Harrison is the leader of this animal troupe, all the performers having had experience in the sawdust ring.

Legion Singers Here On Monday

When the Legion Singers present their concert next Monday evening in the Empress Hotel ballroom, the rather unusual programme will be still further varied by two groups of vocal trios, one group containing the ever-popular "My Johann," by Greig, very interestingly arranged by Asianoff, and Brahms's beautiful "By a Lovely River."

This trio stepped out of its quartette background at the World Fair at Chicago and won first place in the trio competition, duplicating the achievements of the quartette.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Loretta Young and her sister, Polly Ann, are appearing together in a picture for the first time, in Jesse L. Lasky's "The White Parade," now being shown at the Capitol Theatre. Loretta plays the feminine lead, and Polly Ann an important supporting role. Both enact the roles of student-nurses and wear similar costumes, which emphasize their resemblance.

Jackie Coogan Back On Screen

Grown into a tall, browned and handsome young man, Jackie Coogan of "The Kid" fame, returns to the screen for his first adult role in Paramount's "Home on the Range," which will open to-morrow at the Dominion Theatre.

And fully accoutred with Stetson hat, high-heeling boots and six shooters, Jackie Coogan proves as bewitching and straight-shooting a western star as Randolph Scott, Addison Richards, Fuzzy Knight or any of the other three hundred famous cowpunchers who appear in the film.

With Evelyn Brent and Ann Sheridan providing the feminine interest, "Home on the Range" is the story of the deadly feud between a gang of crooks and the rancher-brothers, played by Coogan and Randolph Scott.

"Jafsie" Wants To Be Fair At Trial

Dr. J. F. Condon Talks of His Identification of Bruno Hauptmann

Associated Press

Trenton, N.J., Jan. 10.—Dr. John F. Condon waited five months to tell the public that he had come to the end of his hunt for the collector of the Lindbergh kidnapping ransom because he "wanted to be fair."

The seventy-four-year-old Bronx educationist said in an interview, before returning to Flemington to testify to-day, that he knew his search was over when he confronted Bruno Richard Hauptmann in a New York police line-up the day after the carpenter's arrest on September 20 last.

The police gave out the information that "Jafsie" had "partly identified" the prisoner and Dr. Condon let it go at that.

When the time came yesterday to tell his story to twelve jurors and a courtroom jammed with tense, eager spectators, he was never at a loss for a word.

NOT NERVOUS

"I wasn't any more nervous than I am now," said Dr. Condon.

"I knew Hauptmann the first time I saw him in the Greenwich Street police station, but I refused to identify him because it wasn't fair in the confusion that existed that night to do so without making further tests.

"His accent, his manner, his features gave him away. How could I forget after sitting with him for an hour and ten minutes on a bench? But I wanted to be fair; that is why I did not identify him at the police station that night."

PRISONER WEPT

"I think I could make him talk if I had another opportunity," Dr. Condon said. "The day I talked to him in the New Jersey jail he cried as I mentioned his baby and his old mother in Germany and urged him to tell the truth.

"I started to leave him and he called me back. He said he had something to say to me, that I had helped him to clear his breast, but it was left unsaid, for the authorities who stood nearby called me away."

YOUTH LOSES LIFE

Kelowna, B.C., Jan. 10 (Canadian Press)—William Mack, nineteen, died here as the result of a severe gunshot wound in his thigh, accidentally inflicted when a gun in the hands of Frank Nicolas was discharged when Nicolas slipped in the snow. Mack died later in the hospital. Nicolas was about to shoot a calf on the farm of Mack's father.

Vancouver Man Is President

G. F. Fountain Chosen Head of Surveyors' Corporation at Session Here

George F. Fountain, city surveyor of Vancouver, was elected president of the Corporation of British Columbia Land Surveyors at the conclusion of the morning's session of the thirtieth annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce. He succeeded E. D. McCaw of Victoria.

Other officers chosen were: O. B. N. Wilks, Victoria, vice-president; A. S. G. Musgrave, re-elected secretary-treasurer; G. E. Burnett, New Westminster; R. McL. Elliott, Vancouver; W. G. McIlhanney, Vancouver; F. C. Underhill, Vancouver; A. O. Noakes, Victoria; F. C. Green, surveyor-general, and Mr. McCaw, executive board members.

Mr. Fountain is the youngest president the corporation has ever had.

Reports from the president and various committee chairmen were submitted this morning, each dealing with different phases of the work and reporting on recent developments.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

Mr. McCaw noted a brighter future outlook for the corporation and made an interesting comparison between the membership twenty years ago and to-day, which indicated a falling off of older members of the organization. He regretted to note there were fewer articled pupils coming forward and qualifying in the profession.

One of the most interesting reports was that presented by A. S. G. Musgrave on a recent visit to Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario Land Survey Associations. Mr. Musgrave stressed particularly that he had been made to realize that British Columbia was only an infant in land surveying and there was still much to learn here.

B.C. BEHIND

"There is lot to be learned from the survey methods of other provinces," Mr. Musgrave said. "I find that British Columbia is far behind in the matter of properly defining highways. Highways are properly surveyed in other parts, and the land owner is not expected, as here, to survey a highway at his own expense through his own property, which highway has been summarily taken from his land merely by gazetting certain courses and distances.

"I returned to Victoria with the idea banished from my mind that surveying was almost at an end in British Columbia. On the contrary I saw clearly that we have only just commenced surveying here, as we have not yet got down to a properly controlled system of field work, and also our land legislation system is much too lax from the point of view of demanding proper surveys and the supervision of the same when they are submitted to the various land registry offices."

"I feel that inside the next few years the government will be compelling to appoint a number of surveyors, as other provinces have done, on a permanent basis," he said.

OTHER REPORTS

Other reports were given by Frank Swannell, for the historical and biographical committee which has charge of the collection of old surveying instruments and other articles of general interest in the Parliament Buildings, which is open to the public; Fred Butterfield, publicity; John Davidson, professional engineers' contact, and J. T. Underhill, revision of statutes.

The meeting continued this afternoon with five other reports scheduled for presentation.

RADIO RALLY IS SUCCESS

Atlantic and Pacific United By Interesting Programme Last Night

Scenes across Canada from coast to coast, and the voices of famous Canadians who have made their mark on Broadway and in Hollywood, were brought to the Dominion's radio audience yesterday evening in the greatest hook-up ever carried out in the history of Canada's broadcasting.

"Canada's Radio Valley," as the programme was known, was received by many in this city with tone and quality equal to the best heard in any programme the other side of the border.

Over 12,000 miles of double copper wire joined such distant points as a lighthip out in the Atlantic, the five-mile Connaught tunnel in the Rockies, the bottom of the Hollinger mine in Ontario, the airport at Calgary and the NBC studios in Hollywood and New York.

One of the most interesting features of the whole one-hour presentation was the three-way conversation between a pilot boat off Halifax, Pilot Boat No. 4 off Victoria, and an office in Toronto. The skippers of the two boats compared notes on the amount of business they had had last year, and on things in general.

Walter Huston, the tumbling Red Sparks, and Fifi d'Orsay were the Canadian stars who came to the radio audience from the United States.

Is Interred With Military Honors

Rev. Alan Gardiner officiated at the military funeral service for Daniel Carlin, yesterday afternoon. Many sympathizing friends were present. The hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Many beautiful floral tributes were received.

The following were pallbearers: Sgt.-Major J. S. Murray, G.M.B.; W. Taylor, Sgt. L. Richards, Staff-Sgt. J. Morgan, Sgt. P. White and Sgt. J. Kelley. The remains were laid at rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

L.-Cpl. J. Bowton was in charge of the gun carriage upon which the flag-draped casket was placed, and the "Last Post" was sounded by W. E. Barnes, P.P.C.L.I., and W. T. Byatt, P.P.C.L.I.

Montreal Canadiens Will Not Be Sold

New York, Jan. 10.—Leo Dandurand, part-owner and managing director of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League to-day announced that three offers for the club had been refused and that he and his partners now had no intention of selling.

FOUR ESCAPE IN ACCIDENT

Coupe Turns Over Into Ditch on Island Highway; Occupants Badly Shaken

Four persons miraculously escaped serious injury in an accident on the Island Highway yesterday evening, just north of the Chanticleer Inn.

According to the provincial police, who have not been able to get all details of the crash, the car, a coupe, was being driven towards the city when it left the road and careened through a culvert. It kept on going and after traveling along the bank for a short distance, turned over into the ditch.

It was reported driven by Harry Dempster. There were three other passengers, among whom were two women, who were reported to have been slightly injured and badly shaken.

FRANK H. KIDD DIES IN CITY

Well-known Chartered Accountant Passes; Here For Twenty-two Years

F. H. Kidd, one of Victoria's best-known chartered accountants, died at his home, 291 Moss Street, last night after a brief illness. News of his passing will come as a shock to a wide circle of friends in business circles here and on the Mainland, where he carried on a wide practice.

For many years a prominent member of the Victoria Rotary Club, Mr. Kidd spent some time recently selling tickets for the club's annual charity entertainment. It was while so engaged that he caught a chill which developed into a fatal illness.

Mr. Kidd was born in Stafford, England, but came to Canada with his family as a boy, to live in Toronto, where he was educated. Twenty-two years ago he came to Victoria and has been practicing his profession here and on the Mainland since that time. In the course of his work he has conducted many important audits and financial investigations for the provincial government.

He is survived by Mrs. Kidd and one daughter, Marion, at the family home, three brothers and three sisters in Toronto and one sister, Mrs. F. A. McDiarmid, of Vancouver, formerly of Victoria.

Funeral services will be held at Christ Church Cathedral at 2.30 to-morrow afternoon, under the auspices of the Masonic Order. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

TO CONSIDER CHANGES SOON

Mayor to Call Finance Committee Meeting Next Week on Reorganization Proposal

Members of the city finance committee will meet next week to consider recommendations regarding re-organization of the treasury department advanced by the city auditors some time ago.

With Edwin C. Smith, veteran city treasurer, retiring before the end of the month, action is required in the near future to determine what course will be followed in his department.

Re-organization was approved in principle when first recommended to the council. No action was taken, however, during the time between the date it was brought in and the present in view of the fact the council wished to carry on as long as possible with Mr. Smith at the helm.

Approached recently on the matter, the mayor stated unless other circumstances had arisen to change the outlook, he saw no reason why the council should not still favor reorganization.

Several new set-ups have been suggested for the City Hall, but what course will eventually be taken cannot be conjectured until the finance committee has debated the matter and submitted their suggestions on it to the City Council.

Death Removes Mrs. Sarah Gough

Mrs. Sarah Gough, aged seventy-nine years, widow of Edward Gough, passed away yesterday at the home of her son, Edward Gough, 1561 Pearl Street. She was born in Leeds, Yorkshire, England, and had resided here for twenty-five years. Her husband predeceased her in 1912.

Mrs. Gough is survived by four sons, Ernest Alfred and Edward of Victoria, and Walter of Burlington, Wash.; two daughters, Mrs. S. Pollard of Victoria and Mrs. L. Scott of Carstairs, Alta.; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The remains are resting at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, and funeral services will be conducted at St. Alban's Church on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, Rev. P. W. Weaver officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Almee E. Gordon, who passed away Wednesday morning after a lengthy illness, will be held Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Forty-cent Wage For Relief Work

All Jobs Must Come Under Scale, Government Holds in New Order

The minimum wage principle will be applied to all relief works in the province on a basis of forty cents an hour, it was indicated this morning when Hon. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, laid down a new ruling under which municipalities will be required to pay this rate or lose the government contribution to their relief costs.

In unorganized territories, which are directly under provincial control, this rate has been in force previously. Many of the municipalities are also paying the rate, but in some of the farming districts lower wages are paid on the grounds that the standard labor rate is lower than forty cents.

"The policy of the government is to build up the wage standard," said Mr. Pearson, "and it is only logical that the minimums set for other jobs should hold good on relief works. In the construction industry the Board of Industrial Relations has fixed a minimum of forty cents an hour and certainly this should be followed in public endeavor. For instance, there is one municipality paying 25 cents an hour on a job which in normal times would call for a standard wage."

By circular all municipalities were advised to-day that forty cents must be paid or the government would not contribute to the costs.

The minister pointed out that municipalities should not offer objection to the policy in view of the fact that they actually paid only a forty per cent share of the relief allowance. Thus, if the scale is $0.20 a day, the municipality actually pays only $1.20 of this amount.

TELL POSITION OF ESQUIMALT

Reeve Lockley Issues Full Financial Statement For Municipality

A complete review of the financial situation of the municipality of Esquimalt during the last year, has been issued by Reeve Alex Lockley, in conjunction with Councillor Albert Heald, chairman of the financial committee of the council, and G. H. Pullen, municipal clerk. The statement is intended to check rumors being circulated that the municipality is in bad shape financially.

When the present council took office at the beginning of last year, says the statement, it was confronted with a situation which needed drastic action.

Net current liabilities of the municipality at that time totaled $94,946.69, in which figure was included an unsold debenture issue of $30,000, held by the bank as collateral against the overdraft. The market not being favorable, the issue was withheld. It later realized the sum of $27,291. This sale greatly improved the position of the municipality with the bank, and made possible further financing, pending the receipt of taxes.

LOSS OF REVENUE

"Owing to shrinkage in revenue from loss of taxes by the reversion of the property of the Puget Sound Agricultural Society, the reduction of government grants, and the imposition of social service costs and unemployment relief, the council was faced with the necessity of raising the mill rate by ten mills to forty-four mills," says the report.

Negotiations with the bank, however, permitted the council to levy for a deficit of $10,000, and the rate was set at forty mills.

RATEPAYERS RESPOND

The fine response of the ratepayers to the emergency situation is stressed in the report. Instead of ending 1934 with the expected current liabilities of $10,000, the figure will probably only amount to $4,000. This is accounted for in the report by the fact that current tax collections came within $500 of estimates, and that collections of arrears exceeded the expected figure by almost $4,000.

Savings on the expenditure of the public works and other departments of the municipality also aided the situation.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

During the year the municipality paid out $11,107 for unemployment relief. Of this figure $8,460 went to wages and allowances, and $2,706 to material and supervision. The provincial and federal governments refunded $5,570 of the total figure, making no allowance for material and supervision costs. The municipality's share of wages was borrowed from the provincial government by a loan at 5 per cent, extending over a period of ten years.

"The reeve and council consider that the result of last year's operation is a matter for congratulation both to themselves and the ratepayers, and they look forward with confidence to further improvement in conditions during the coming year," the statement concludes.

ADVERTISING SELLS WARES

C. R. Vint, vice-president of the Colgate - Palmolive - Peet Company Limited is a strong believer in advertising and points to it as one of the outstanding factors in the successful marketing of his company's products.

"Our advertising has played its part in placing us in our present strong position," said Mr. Vint in an interview. "All through the depression our products were advertised extensively and with great frequency."

Speaking of the company's advertising plans for the future, Mr. Vint said: "Our advertising plans for 1935 have now been completed. Practically every daily newspaper in the Dominion will be used to form the backbone of our campaign. We believe newspaper advertising is the best method of reaching the great majority of people to whom we wish to sell."

ENGLISH TOUR IS DESCRIBED

Edwin Tomlin Addresses Rotary Club on Recent Visit to British Isles

An interesting account of his recent visit to the British Isles and Bermuda was given to members of the Rotary Club at luncheon to-day at the Empress Hotel by Rotarian Edwin Tomlin of the B.C. Cement Company.

It was past presidents' day at the luncheon and the following ex-presidents sat at the head table with J. Morse Hall, present president of the club: J. H. Beatty, Alfred Carmichael, Charles H. French, James Fletcher, George McGregor, R. W. Mayhew and Herbert Anscomb.

London had changed greatly from the time when he was a boy there, Mr. Tomlin said. He said he felt a sense of stability there in every direction. There was a changed spirit and feeling in action and demeanor of all the people. Great Britain, he said, had expanded her world-wide communications.

Mr. Tomlin spoke of the movement to abolish the London slum areas. From London to Windsor in one direction and from London to Brighton in another it was all built almost solidly with new homes. The working man was now permitted to build his own home, pay for it on time and in twenty or twenty-five years it would be his own, Mr. Tomlin stated. This movement is counted to make contentment and to spread health, he said.

MONARCHY SECURED

The monarchy in England was more secure than ever, Mr. Tomlin said. He referred to the popularity of the present royal family and mentioned the great good its members were doing among the people of the poorer classes.

Great Britain still stood for the sanctity of debt. There was no talk of repudiation there, he said. She had kept her banking system sound. He said the spectacle he saw was most encouraging. There was very little sentiment and to spread health, he stated.

EASTERN CANADA

Business conditions in eastern Canada were also referred to by Mr. Tomlin. In Toronto, he said, he found an entirely different atmosphere from that of the west. He said he felt stability in every direction in Ontario and Quebec. The people there held different views from the people in the west. He said they had the welfare of the people of the whole Dominion very much at heart, and showed a real interest with the problems of the people west of the Great Lakes.

Members of the Rotary Club stood for a minute in silence in memory of the late Frank Kidd, who passed away this morning. T. J. Cornfoke moved that a letter of sympathy be sent from the club to members of his family.

Rotarian J. J. Forster, steamship general passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is a visitor here from Vancouver, was a guest at the luncheon.

Members of the appeal board under the Town Planning Act were named by the government to-day in the city and district of North Vancouver. Charles Weeks was appointed on the district board and A. G. Perry on the city board.

POLICE GET OPIUM HAUL

Arrested yesterday evening with eight tins allegedly containing opium, Chen Chong, Chinese, appeared in the City Police Court this morning charged with unlawful possession of the drug. He was remanded until Monday pending analysis of the drug.

The arrest was made by Detectives Woodburn and Jarvis who chased the accused into the refuge of a disused building on Store Street. The tins, valued at $1,000 were removed from under his coat.

When first seen the accused was accompanied by another man, police stated, but the other man escaped.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE Daffinites Boys, Jerome and Paul Dean, having retired momentarily from the baseball spotlight, let's let just a few beams stray in the direction of a man who was burning them through there when the Deans were pinafores (or whatever kids wear down there in Lucas, Ark).

We are thinking of Lefty Grove, who is at this moment thinking mostly of how to bring down some acceptable game with one of his large collection of fowling pieces.

Is Grove through? His disappointing showing of last season is no doubt bringing furrows to the brows of Eddie Collins and the honeymooning Joe Cronin. For they have to figure out just how big a place Grove is to fill with the Boston Red Sox this coming summer.

Did Grove have only a temporary sore arm last summer when he was bombarded out of the box

by teams that could not foul him in 1933? Or have the bearings finally burned out in that great piece of machinery that buzzed them through there for fifteen seasons?

Best dope is that Manager Joe is not going to count on Grove for anything more than relief duty next summer. Should Grove come back, prove able to take a regular turn, and win anything like the twenty-four victories he turned in for the Philadelphia Athletics in 1933, that would be just so much velvet, and set Cronin right down for permanent residence at No. 1, Easy Street.

But it may be that the sun has gone out of the Grovian soup bone forever. Robert Moses has been waiting them over for fifteen years.

The Grove system, especially in his earlier days, was simple. It was to throw every pitch right through there. That takes more out of the whip than it does out of other fireball pitchers who are able to mix them up a little more with curves, change of pace, and a little outmarting.

Maybe he will be the old Lefty in 1935. You cannot tell. But the best dope is that Manager Joe Cronin is not counting too heavily on it.

Critics who have sat through the Dean boys' first efforts at movie-making have agreed that the Daffinites Boys as movie actors are still great pitchers.

Hollywood surrounded them in their first start before the camera with a choice assortment of the ripest kind of Gorgonzola in the way of a picture. Fortunately, the boys make no effort to act, walking through the picture with just the same kind of unworried calm that they walked through the World Series. But the box score is: no hit, no fun, and plenty of horrors.

But speaking of pitchers, as we are, here is another contribution to that perennial argument about who's the greatest pitcher of all time.

John Peter Wagner, who under the name of Honus used to play a little baseball himself, has broken down and confessed to J. G. Taylor Spink, the walking baseball encyclopedia, that he would take Christy Mathewson for his money.

The veteran Pittsburgh coach (he is sixty, soon) faced some good ones in his day, Waddell and Alexander included. And he allows as how Mathewson gets the nod, because in addition to being able to throw the ball through there, he was a ball player, too. That is, he could field and hit, knew what the score was, had perfect control, and was smart.

That is a large order, friends, and you can quote old Honus the next time the boys around the stove begin arguing about that green old question.

Boston Cubs Win In Minor Hockey

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—After smashing away at a rock-like defence for more than two periods without getting anywhere, Boston Cubs cracked in two last season goals in lightning fast battle yesterday evening to turn back Philadelphia Arrows 2 to 1 and increase their Canadian-American Hockey League lead.

Roy Burmeister scored for Arrows, Frank Jervis notched twice and Jean Pusie once for Cubs.

Winnipeg Monarchs Defeat Austrians

Vienna, Jan. 10.—Winnipeg Monarchs trounced an Austrian national hockey team 6 to 0 yesterday evening. Art Ross-Jones, goalie for the touring Canadian team, was kept in the game after an absence of several weeks due to injury.

Hollywood and San Francisco Elevens Coming

Will Engage in Matches Against Victoria and Vancouver Squads

Screen Notables With Invaders

Headed by C. Aubrey Smith, English cricketer, who has played school and county matches and has been a valuable member of two British touring sides, a team representing the Hollywood Cricket Club will journey north from California to play in Victoria during the first week in July. Definite details of the match will be discussed by the Victoria and District Cricket League at a special executive meeting on Monday evening.

The team will probably include notables of the screen, according to word received here. Several of the Hollywood colony were cricketers in their school days in England.

According to suggestions made by Mr. Smith in a communication to local officials, the Hollywood team would journey north and play San Francisco in an exhibition game on Sunday, June 30, before proceeding further up the coast together for games here and in Vancouver on July 1 and 2.

TWO TEAMS COMING

Mr. Smith has also suggested Hollywood play Victoria on the first day while San Francisco meets Vancouver. The order would be reversed the following day with San Francisco playing here and Hollywood meeting Vancouver on the mainland.

Smith himself is president of the Hollywood club. He started his cricket at Charterhouse, which he attended from 1870 to 1881, playing on the school eleven during that period.

He was a member of the Cambridge eleven from 1882 to 1884 and played for Sussex County, England, from 1882 to 1892.

He captained the Shaw and Shrewsbury eleven which toured Australia during the 1887-1888 season and was a member of the English team which played in South Africa the following year.

A good bowler with a fair turn of speed he was a valuable defender for all teams on which he played.

The California arrangements were reported to-day to be the biggest feature arranged thus far for the 1935 season here.

Negotiations have also been carried on with Vancouver, Nanaimo and Duncan clubs for fixtures during the season and a good list of intercity games is expected when they are completed.

Two More Deans Enter Baseball

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 10.—At this rate, baseball will be mostly Deans next season.

Close behind the announcement from Big Springs, Texas, that Jerome, a cousin of the "Dizzy-Daffy" St. Louis Cardinal set, had been ordered by that team to report for training, another Dean entered the lineup.

Elmer, brother of Dizzy and Daffy, apparently has decided to forsake the gridiron for the diamond, and Ray Dean, sponsor of a baseball school here each year, said he will be a pupil at a spring session.

Dizzy and Daffy will assist in coaching young players at the school.

CLINT SMITH FAR IN FRONT

Tops Scorers in Northwest Hockey League With Twenty-two Points

Calgary, Jan. 10.—Still increasing his lead in the Northwest Hockey League scoring race, Clint Smith, Vancouver, to-day had a total of twenty-two points, eight more than his nearest rival, Harold Tabor, Seattle. Smith's twenty-two points came from thirteen goals and nine assists, while Tabor had ten goals and four assists.

Tied with Tabor in total points for second place were three others, Smith's wingman, Bobby Kirk with 9-5—14, Bryan Hextall, a rookie with 9-5—14, and Tony Hemmerling, Seattle Sea Hawks, who had seven of each.

Walter Macartney, Calgary, led the trip tied with thirteen points with eleven goals and two assists. Cameron Proudlock, Seattle "bad man," had ten goals and three assists, despite the forty-three minutes of forced idleness he had spent in the penalty box, and Portland's Jimmy Evans had nine goals and four assists

Bert Simpson, Fifth Brigade, and Howie Anderson, intermediate Canadian Scottish, caught wing berths on Victoria's McKechnie Cup team for its game against Varsity at the Athletic Park, Saturday. Their selection was announced after yesterday evening's practice.

The complete squad scheduled to trot onto the field at 2.45 o'clock follows: McInnes (Fifth Brigade), fullback; H. Anderson (Scottish), Fleming (Fifth Brigade), F. Howe (Fifth Brigade) and B. Simpson (Fifth Brigade), three-quarters; Brown (J.B.A.A.) and Stipe (Fifth Brigade) halves; Tuckey (Garrison), Peard (J.B.A.A.), Ingleson (Fifth Brigade), Nixon (Navy), Dowell (Fifth Brigade), Peden (Fifth Brigade), Rankes (Scottish) and A. With the exception of the crack forward the Varsity crew will bring the same team to Victoria that played through the first half of Vancouver Rugby Union schedule.

Griffin will hold down the full-back berth. Stuart Leggatt, Joe Roberts, Al Mercer and J. Burd will form the three-quarter line. Capt. Tommy Roxborough and Harry Robson, diminutive former Victoria College star, are slated to perform as half-backs. The forward line will consist of John Harrison, Jim Mitchell, Bob Grove, Bill Morris, Ron Upward, Harry Pearson, Bill Maguire and Mac McMullen.

A meeting of the Victoria Cricket Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Colonist board room.

Cinder Running Track Is Sought

School Board Backs Request to City Council Asking For Decent Surface; Athletic Park and Willows Suggested

Steps were taken by the Victoria School Board yesterday evening to ask the City Council for a new cinder running track in the city.

The move, introduced by Trustee Percy E. George, was enthusiastically endorsed by the board and, on announcement to sporting organizations of Victoria interested in track and field, met an exceptionally favorable reception.

The construction of a track at one of the city's playing fields, preferably the Athletic Park enclosure, would fill a long-felt need in the city. Not since the Oak Bay Park's track fell into disuse over a decade ago as a running centre, have sprinters and distancemen had a decent fast surface on which to work.

Supporting his motion that the board request the council for a track, Trustee George noted the difficulty and danger experienced by young competitors in the school sports each year at the Willows track. In addition to furnishing a decent surface for the children at their annual meet, the track could be used for other big meets which might be included in the new tourist development scheme, the trustee pointed out.

NOT GIVEN CHANCE

George Deane, municipal inspector, called the attention of the trustees to the main objections to the Willows in its present state. The track there was essentially for horse racing, and although smoothed out a bit for the school sports, still furnished dangerous and heavy footing for the youngsters, who could not show their best under those conditions. With the track in its usual shape, the spectator had no chance of determining the true running ability of the competitors, he stated.

Although he favored the construction of a track at the Willows independent of the horse track, Mr. Deane evinced keen interest in the Athletic Park. If accommodation could be made for spectators at the latter grounds, he believed it would be more valuable, being more central for the schools competing.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the City Council asking consideration be given the move.

WIDE INTEREST TAKEN

Archie McKinnon, leading track figure here, when questioned on the proposal, declared construction of a track would be largely a matter of labor. Excavation would be necessary for the laying of big boulders and larger stones beneath the smooth surface finished in clay and small clinders of brick dust, he said.

The need for a decent track has been indicated here on many occasions. Recent meets of major importance have been held on turf, and fast times sig secure footing have been out of the question.

A few years ago Victoria nearly had an opportunity to watch Percy Williams in action out-of-doors, at a time when the Vancouver flier was still rated among the best in the world. Percy came over to the city to run an exhibition race. He journeyed to the Willows and justifiably refused to risk his legs on the bumpy ground where other performers had been tent-pegging on horseback.

LOTS OF MATERIAL

At present, in addition to the school children, the city has a wealth of track material just bordering on the big time. With a decent track, the city could probably produce a good quota of performers of national calibre and some good enough for international competition.

It might also tend to return Victoria to a point in the track spotlight it held a couple of decades ago, when Hal Beasley, Brooks Vale, George Dixon, Frank Baillie, and other men of that calibre gained more than provincial recognition on the Oak Bay cinder path. It would also give the local boys of the present day a chance to show their best form without betting to go out of town, as they must at present.

Ace Teaches Ace

Victoria City To Engage Esquimalt

In the only second division football match scheduled Saturday, Esquimalt and Victoria City elevens will clash at Beacon Hill upper ground at 2.30 o'clock. Dave Swan will handle the whistle.

MUDDERS IN GREAT FORM

Dominate Card at Santa Anita Track; Twenty Grand Scratched For Third Time

Los Angeles, Jan. 10. — Wise Daughter, coupled with Whiskolo as the Milky Way Farms entry, won the Tomatillo Handicap here yesterday, a six-furlong dash for three-year-olds and up, as the mudders had a field day at Santa Anita track.

Odds-on favorite, Wise Daughter, New Year's Day handicap winner, defeated Marooned by a nose, with Croon third, three lengths behind. Whiskolo was fourth. The time was 1.13 2-5.

Wise Daughter paid $3.20 and $2.20 on $2 pari-mutuel tickets, with no show tickets sold.

TWENTY GRAND SCRATCHED

The race took the feature spot on the programme when Twenty Grand and two others were scratched in the five-horse field for the $2,500 sixth race that was to have been the first prepping event for the seven-year-old Kentucky Derby winner.

The declarations brought about cancellation of the event.

Top money for the day was paid by Squeezer, which won the second race, to be worth $520, $111.20 and $4.40 to ticket holders.

Yesterday was the third time Twenty Grand had been scratched after being nominated to go. Trainer Bill Trennan announced Tuesday night that if the track was heavy or slippery yesterday he would not risk the Greentree Stable star, which is training for a comeback with the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap of February 23 his goal.

Vines and Tilden Brilliant In Win

Perform in Spectacular Fashion to Defeat Lott and Stoefen 3-6, 14-16, 13-11, 8-6, 6-4 as Latter Pair Make Pro Debut; 14,816 Present

New York, Jan. 10. — Pugnosed George Lott and Lestern "Little Bolts" Stoefen, a couple of weary young athletes, were really started on the way to their first million to-day, but for them both the start of this professional tennis road was paved with nothing but dollars and disillusionment.

They came into Madison Square Garden before 14,816 people yesterday evening—a crowd that for evening starched shirts and tall hats rivalled a metropolitan opera opening—and they lost all but honor and the 12½ per cent of the $20,000 net gate receipts promoter Bill O'Brien paid them for their professional debut.

First Bill Tilden, despite his forty-two years, knocked Lott off in straight sets of a singles match, 6-4, 7-5, and then Tilden and long Ellsworth Vines stripped them of their right to the title of the world's greatest doubles team, amateur or professional, by winning one of the most sensational matches ever played, 3-6, 14-16, 13-11, 8-6, 6-4

So long did the doubles match rage, 2 hours 51 minutes, that it was too late when it ended to stage the final scheduled contest, a singles combat between Vines and Stoefen.

VINES IMPROVED

Vines was a magnificent improvement on the youngster who only a years ago made his professional debut on the same cloth surface stretched over cement before 14,637, who paid $30,000 at somewhat higher prices.

Against the United States doubles champions and Davis Cup heroes, Vines was a superman in the grueling battle that wore Lott and Stoefen down completely, and to the astonishment of all wound up with the ancient Tilden the second strongest player on the court.

Vines matched blonde, lanky Stoefen's power and speed with even greater converts with his service in the pinches, drilling terrific forehands to the sidelines and baselines, smashing lobs and angling placements all over the court.

Vines held Tilden up most of the way against the canniness and fine position play of the youngsters, but the old master aided him greatly in the pinches.

This match had everything. Vines smashed Lott in the seat of the pants with a kill, and the two pro rookies stormed at the umpires, batted balls into the crowd, threw their bats in the air and raised their hands and voices in pleading supplication to the tennis gods.

Tilden made shots between his legs and with his back turned, and everyone had an immense time.

Lott and Stoefen each got about $2,500 for the evening's work.

LIONS NOSE OUT CALGARY

Vancouver Sets Back Prairie Team 3 to 2 in Northwest Hockey League

Calgary, Jan. 10.—Vancouver Lions, still secure in their second slot position of the Northwest Hockey League, to-day counted an even break in the first two games of their initial prairie invasion as a result of a 3 to 2 decision over Calgary yesterday evening.

In a nip and tuck battle that saw the prairie squad tie the score twice, the Lions finally eked out the victory with a brilliant last-period goal.

The result had no effect on the standings, leaving the Lions still six points back of the league leading Seattle Sea Hawks and the Calgary Club tied with Edmonton in the cellar.

LIONS IN LEAD

Bill Hutton opened the scoring after eight minutes of the first period, taking a pass from Bobby Kirk to beat Sam Timmins in the Calgary nets. Two minutes later Jimmy Jempson took a pass from Stew Adams to tie the score. In the next two minutes Hank Dyck and Walter Creasy combined with Dyck taking the pass to beat Timmins and put Lions ahead again.

After a scoreless middle session, Calgary again went onto even terms with the visitors when Stew Adams counted on a pass from Jempson to score nine seconds after the third period opened.

Just past the five-minute mark, Bryan Hextall, smart young winger, stipped the puck to Clint Smith and the flashy Vancouver centre drove home the winning marker.

CHICAGO CUBS SHOW DEFICIT

National Baseball League Club Has Lost $600,000 in Three Seasons

Chicago, Jan. 10. — Chicago Cubs, thought to be a tremendous money maker, have been a financial flop for the last three years.

Word was out from Philip K. Wrigley, forty-year-old president, to-day that the ball club lost $600,000 in that period. The loss for 1934 was around $200,000.

There are three major reasons for the huge deficit, Wrigley explained. These are: Falling off in attendance, generous salaries to the players and a tremendous cash expenditure for the purchase of stars, some of whom failed to click.

Asked if the 1935 payroll of the club would be lower than last year, Wrigley replied:

"Not much. It will be balanced, however."

Perry Winner In Straight Sets

Melbourne, Jan. 10.—Fred Perry, whose game has suffered lately because of too much tennis, showed a convincing return to form yesterday, when he defeated Georgio de Stefani, the Italian, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0, to enter the semi-finals of the Australian championships.

BRIGHT YEAR FOR GOLFERS

Will Be One of Opportunities, Says G. R. Jacobus, Head of U.S. Pro Body

By GEORGE R. JACOBUS
President, Professional Golfers' Association

New York, Jan. 10.—For the game of golf, 1935 will be a year of opportunities which, if recognized, accepted and developed, will make it the greatest year since 1929.

This year's tournament schedule is already full and promises to break all records. This leads me to predict a tremendous increase in the number of new players. In addition, many old golfers will be returning to the game—players who found it necessary, due to unsettled business conditions, to drop the game during 1930 and 1931.

Shining brightly on the 1935 golfing calendar are the international Ryder Cup team matches, which will be played at the Ridgewood Country Club, Ridgewood, N.J., September 28 and 29. These matches always furnish some of the game's most thrilling exhibitions, bringing together the cream of the world's golfers.

St. Louis Eagles Sign an Amateur

St. Louis, Jan. 10.—Coach Buck Boucher, of St. Louis Eagles, National Hockey League team, announced yesterday that Pete Kelly, former Winnipegger, and right winger of the Charlottetown, P.E.I., club, of the Maritime League, has been signed to play with the Eagles.

Kelly, twenty-two, is leading the Maritime circuit in scoring. He will join the Eagles in New York next Sunday.

Buffalo Bisons In Win Over Windsor

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 10.—A late third period drive that overcame a one-goal lead and gave them a 3 to 1 decision over Windsor Bull Dogs left Buffalo Bisons tied with Windsor and Cleveland for third place in the International Hockey League to-day.

Three former Detroit Olympic players pumped into the breach for Buffalo after Aubrey Wabster had given the Bull Dogs their one-goal lead in the third period yesterday evening. Gamey Lederman, Lloyd Gross and Johnny Newman were the Bison sharpshooters.

Important Games In Major Hockey

Toronto Leafs Are Told to Come Out of "Slump" in Battle Against Americans at New York; Boston Will Engage St. Louis; Chicago Hawks Tackle Maroons

Conny Smythe, who figures his Toronto Leafs are in a slump if they drop one game, takes them into New York to-night for a joust with Americans that had better snap them out of their lethargy. Smythe, never exactly calm even when Leafs are winning, is due to start cracking down if they drop this one.

The Toronto manager hopes his—and the league's—leading sharpshooters, Harvey Jackson and Charlie Conacher, will come to the aid of the section leaders after several games in which they have failed to show the scoring punch that brings goals. Their slump is reflected in Leafs' record in their last four games—three losses and one win.

Jackson and Conacher will be pitted to-night against Dave Schriner, the twenty-three-year-old Calgary rookie, who is nearer to them in points compiled than any other player in the Canadian section. Sweeney has picked up seven goals and ten assists for a total of seventeen points, only six less than Conacher and seven below Jackson's mark. He would be delighted indeed to close up part of the gap while opposing them to-night.

TWO OTHER GAMES

While Leafs and Americs are battling away in Madison Square Gardens Boston Bruins will be playing in St. Louis and Chicago in Montreal against Maroons.

Any night Black Hawks and Bruins are playing now the American section standing is likely to be switched around and this is no exception. A win for Boston while Hawks were losing would put the Bruins out in front again.

If Toronto lose Maroons can edge up to within five points of them by beating Chicago. St. Louis Eagles have a chance to get out of the Canadian division cellar for the first time with a win from Boston. They now are tied with Montreal Canadiens for last place.

The Habitants are idle to-night with Detroit and New York Rangers. They will probably learn from Leo Dandurand in New York to-day whether they are to be sold. Whether they consider the announcement good news or bad they'll be smiling about the return of Johnny Gagnon, the Chicoutimi "Black Cat." Dandurand announced yesterday evening Gagnon, who went to Boston in the off-season in a deal that brought Joe Lamb to Canadiens, had been bought back.

M'LARNIN IS BIG BOOSTER

World Welterweight Champ Pays Tribute to Gordie Wallace; Allen Has Plans

Vancouver, Jan. 10.—Gordon Wallace, Vancouver belter, who knocked out Ron Headley, Ottawa, in the eighth round of a scheduled twelve-session headliner Tuesday night, could hold his own with the best of the welterweights, in the opinion of no less an authority than Jimmy McLarnin, world champion at the weight.

"He feinted, blocked and counterpunched like a master. He was quick to take advantage of his openings and seldom punched twice to the same spot. He kept switching his target and Headley would no sooner cover up in one spot than Gordon would fire away at another. That's smart fighting.

CAN TAKE IT

"And they can say what they like about Gordon not being able to 'take it.' I've known him since he was a baby, almost, and he has always been a tough boy.

"Headley was no set-up. He is a good, tough boy and well conditioned. Men like that take a lot of wearing down, but Gordie went the right way about it. Both Wallace and Headley are big and rangy for welterweights. They're nice clean fighters and it's a pleasure to see them work.

"Wallace, I think, proved he can take care of himself in any company. Properly handled, I look for him to go a long way.

"A return bout with Headley, maybe over fifteen rounds, wouldn't do Gord any harm. He needs roughing up a bit and Headley is strong enough to give it to him, though not sufficiently smart to beat him."

Despite the fact Headley was knocked from the ring in the deciding eighth round and failed to get back before the count of ten, official opinion here was that Wallace won by a knockout and not by a technical knockout. George McLaughlin, one of the judges, stated it was scored a knockout.

NO ALIBIS

"I have no alibis," Headley said yesterday. "I lost my balance in the eighth round. The count seemed very short."

Wallace declared he was not really hurt during the fight.

"I never really stopped a tough one," he said. "He couldn't really hit."

Gordon carried a swelling around the left eye, however, and he admitted, "I guess he did get in one fast one—somewhere about the third wasn't it? But I didn't feel it at the time, really."

Indications were that Headley might be matched in two weeks with "Sonny" Jones, colored Vancouver lightweight, who is reported willing to step out of his class. The winner of a fight between these two might be matched with Wallace.

Promoter Jack Allen was also reported planning for a title match between Wallace and the winner of to-morrow night's fight at Toronto between Tommy Bland and Frankie Genovese.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Playfair Brown, Toronto promoter, said yesterday there will be no Canadian welterweight title bout involving either Tommy Bland or Frank Genovese, Toronto contenders, not yet awhile. Promoter Jack Allen's plans at Vancouver for a title bout between either one and Gordon Wallace are distinctly premature, according to Brown's way of looking at it.

Brown said Bland had signed a local contract stipulating that if he defeats Genovese here to-morrow night, he will meet Irish Jimmy Boyne on January 21. When this little eastern series is over, Brown said he would apply for sanction from the Canadian Boxing Federation to stage a fifteen-round bout between Wallace and the eastern winner.

Brown said he is opening negotiations with Wallace.

VICTORIA WEST UNITED Y.P.S.

The Victoria West United Y.P.S. held their first meeting of the new year on Tuesday evening with a good attendance of members.

After the usual business discussion, of which the president, Jack Price was in charge, a sing-song was enjoyed with Jack Wallace as accompanist.

HOYLE-BROWN RALLY TO WIN

Come From Behind to Defeat Lake Hill 40 to 24 in Basketball Clash

Yesterday evening's three Victoria and District Basketball League games at the High School gym saw Hoyle-Brown defeat Lake Hill 40 to 24 in a men's senior B division game; West Road trounced New Method 50 to 27 in the same section and Kingham-Gillespie accounted for the Canadian Scottish 25 to 23 in an intermediate A boys' fixture.

After trailing 18 to 16 at the end of the first half Hoyle-Brown came through in the final period to win and retain their undefeated record.

By defeating New Method the West Road squad took over second place in the men's senior B division.

AGGRESSION NOT ITALY'S POLICY

Abyssinia Is Given Assurances By Premier Mussolini

Associated Press

Rome, Jan. 10.—Premier Mussolini to-day gave assurances to Negadras Yesus, Ethiopian minister to Italy, that Italy's strengthened position in Africa would not result in a policy of aggression.

Apprehension had been expressed by Ethiopia, already at odds with Rome because of frontier clashes in Italian Somaliland, that a "free hand" in addition to territories had been given Italy by France in the recent accords between the two countries.

"My interview with Premier Mussolini was most cordial," said Yesus. "He assured me he wants to keep the most peaceful relations with us and that Italy has not the slightest idea of aggression."

REORGANIZATION IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 10.—Initial action toward fulfilment of his promises for complete reorganization of civic departments was taken yesterday by Mayor G. G. McGeer, who recommended to the City Council that a special aldermanic committee be appointed to deal with the matter.

He also recommended to the council appointment of a committee of aldermen to prepare the 1935 budget.

Mr. McGeer said the reorganization committee would make a complete survey of all city hall departments with a view to elimination of every unnecessary expense and to consolidate work of departments where possible.

The next meeting of the Victoria West United Church Community Forum will be held in the social hall of the church this evening, when the speaker will be the Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education in the provincial parliament. Dr. Weir's subject will be "The Church and Society." Rev. W. R. Brown will be chairman.

The British Columbia joint committee on unemployment, at the end of last year, had a cash balance of $111.86, according to the financial statement released to-day. Receipts, including collections by canvassers, dance receipts, collections at meetings, a big day and city grant amounted to $648. Disbursements totaled $622.02, the major amount being a remittance to the central fund, Vancouver, of $150.

RAIN HELPS WEST INDIES

Have Majority of Twenty-one Runs in Test Cricket Against M.C.C.

Bridgetown, Barbados, Jan. 10.—Rain yesterday helped the West Indies cricket team emerge from the first innings of their first test match against touring Marylebone Cricket Club of England with a majority of 21 runs.

The island colonials team went out late in the afternoon to score 32 runs for the loss of three wickets in their second innings.

After losing two wickets for no runs on a slippery, rain-coated pitch, England declared their innings with seven men out for 31. Hampered by the same inclemency of weather the West Indians had only compiled 103 in their first innings Tuesday.

After waiting all day for puddles on the field to dry, players finally took up positions at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The final part of England's innings yesterday lasted just seven minutes and saw three balls bowled. On the second ball, hard-hitting Wally Hammond tapped an easy catch to Ralph Grant, one-time resident of Nova Scotia. And on the next ball, Holmes went out to Achong for a duck.

The West Indian batsmen fared badly. Smith captured the first three batsmen in his first two over which were both maidens.

Tops Bowlers in Olympic Senior Tenpin League in First Half With Fine Mark of 204; Johnny Quinn Second; Poodle Dog Team First-half Champions

Art Manson's team of first-class tenpin rollers in the Olympic Senior Tenpin League walked off with the first half honors, according to figures released by the secretary of the league to-day, by winning thirty-one of the forty-two games played.

This gives them a leg on Horace Beer's Poodle Dog Cafe Cup, which will be awarded to the winner of the play-off, to be held between the Poodle Dog team and the team winning the second half, which opened last Tuesday evening.

Ron Wilson was well out in front of the individual averages with a mark of 204 for forty-two games, Johnny Quinn was second with 197, closely followed by Harold Paulding, who registered 196. Wilson rolled consistently throughout the schedule, with a high single game of 269. His lowest game was 157. The night Ron rolled his low game, however, he tacked on to it scores of 215 and 270 for an evening's total of 650. Out of forty-two games Wilson had scores of over 200 in twenty-five of them.

CANADIAN RING STARS TO MEET

Frank Battaglia and Lou Brouillard in Ten-round Battle on January 17

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 10.—Announcement of a meeting between two of the heaviest punching ringmen ever to come out of Canada, Frankie Battaglia and Lou Brouillard, was made here yesterday evening.

The promoter for Duquesne Garden said the middleweights would collide here on January 17. Considering the dynamite the pair carry in their fists, it seemed unlikely the bout could live through its scheduled life of ten rounds.

Brouillard, former middle champ, is a native of St. Eugene, Que., and now a resident of Worcester, Mass. Battaglia, younger and less experienced than the ex-titleholder, but equally as powerful a puncher, is from Winnipeg.

League Council To Convene To-morrow

International Body Will Remain in Session at Geneva Till After Saar Vote; Chaco War Will Be Among Major Questions

Canadian Press from Havas

Geneva, Jan. 10.—The Council of the League of Nations will start here to-morrow and remain in session until after the Saar plebiscite.

Against the background of this historic status by nearly 1,000,000 people of the rule under which they will live, statesmen representing the world powers will study means to further the peace of Europe.

While discussions on disarmament are not officially on the council's agenda, the usual corridor conversations among the diplomats will assume particular importance at this meeting coming so close on the heels of the cementing of a Franco-Italian entente.

CHACO WAR

A major question before the council is the future course of the Chaco conflict, which the League had hoped to have settled by Christmas, but which is still raging with undiminished vigor between Bolivia and Paraguay in the South American jungles. A final reply is awaited from Paraguay by the League subcommittee to the assembly's peace proposals and definite and final action may be obtained before the council adjourns.

There is every indication decisions of momentous importance may be taken at this eighty-fourth session of the council, which will be presided over by Tewfik Rushdi Aras, Turkish Foreign Minister.

FIRST MEETING FRIDAY

The session will not get under way in earnest until next Tuesday. The council will hold its first meeting Friday afternoon to pass finally on the agenda, but it will in all likelihood adjourn immediately afterwards until Tuesday morning.

But the political interest of the meeting will command attention long before the session proper gets under way. Several foreign ministers have already agreed to meet Aristide Briand in Geneva, adding them the John Simon who, accompanied by Sir Eric Anthony Eden, will be here to represent Great Britain.

Actually there are thirty questions of greater or lesser importance before the council.

First of all is the Saar. This question will be far from settled when the final results of the plebiscite are known. Whatever the vote of the Saarlanders, it is up to the Council to take final decisions and interpret the treaty provisions under which the Saar will go to Germany or France or remain under the League.

This interpretation will be made in conformity with the vote recorded at the plebiscite, as provided for in the Treaty of Versailles.

PERSIA AND IRAQ

Differences between Persia and Iraq will also be aired at the meeting, since the boundary dispute between the two has been placed before the Council by the latter government.

The dispute between the Ethiopian and Italian governments must also be reviewed by the Council in view of Ethiopia's recent invocation of the covenant. The last note of the Ethiopian government will be placed before it at the first sitting. In this note Ethiopia invoked Article XI of the League covenant, which deals with "threat of war."

The same article was invoked by Jugoslavia in the recent Hungarian-Jugoslavian conflict arising from the Marseilles assassinations and was embittered by subsequent expulsions of Hungarians from Jugoslavia. The League dealt successfully with that dispute at the extraordinary session of the Council a month ago.

Petitions emanating from German minority groups in Poland may bring Polish Foreign Minister Beck back to the minorities question.

The added fact that the Foreign Minister Laval will have an opportunity of conferring here with Sir John Simon and Capt. Eden on the eve of his proposed trip to London gives an additional significance to the meeting.

APPROVED AT PARIS

Paris, Jan. 10 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Unanimous approval was given to-day to the Franco-Italian agreements by the French cabinet at its first meeting at the Quai d'Orsay since Foreign Minister Pierre Laval's return from Rome.

M. Laval, in a detailed address, revealed to his colleagues the precise nature of the four-fold negotiations that culminated with the signing of the compacts guaranteeing Austrian security, pledging Franco-Italian unity on German rearmament and other European and colonial problems, which laid the base of a series of European non-interference accords, and settling Italian territorial claims in Africa.

Meanwhile eyes were turned to the Quai d'Orsay in expectation that the full texts of the accords would be published shortly.

Selling expenses increased from 9.8 per cent in 1929 to 2.3 per cent in 1932, due to the expensive system of transfer depots and agencies maintained in the distribution system.

"There has not been given," Mr. Stevens charged, "that measure of (price) reduction that might have been given if the large companies had been a little more careful in building up high inventories in 1928 and 1929.

"The increase in selling costs challenges the wisdom and soundness of this system of distribution. The large companies must face the charge of the farmer he is not getting the price reduction that is warranted."

Mr. Gordon showed the inflexibility of the expenses of the big implement plants. Taken as a whole, expenses jumped from 17 per cent in 1928 to 30.7 per cent in 1932 although sales dropped drastically at the same time.

BRANCHES IN PROVINCES

The four large companies maintain forty-three branches in all parts of the country, with an average personnel of twenty. In addition they have warehouses or transfer depots. The number of agents is about 7,300.

At the end of 1929, Mr. Gordon said, the four large implement companies, Massey-Harris Co. Ltd., International Harvester Co. Ltd. of Canada, Cockshutt Plough Co. Ltd. and Frost and Wood, had accounts receivable and inventories of $90,000,000. At the end of 1932, this total had fallen to $51,-000,000.

Of this reduction of $39,000,000, approximately $10,000,000 represented a drop in liabilities and the balance of $29,000,000 meant losses of all kinds, write-down of inventories and bad debts, he said.

The Massey-Harris Co. had losses of $19,076,000 between 1930 and 1933; International Harvester, $6,034,541; Cockshutt Plough, $1,464,007 and Frost and Wood, $612,189. Heavy losses by the four companies was due largely to decreasing sales, Gordon said.

Between 1927 and 1929, the investments, surpluses and free reserves in the four big companies increased $60,-000,000, Mr. Gordon said. Massey-Harris accounted for $16,500,000 of this total and International Harvester, $11,500,000.

SALES DIVERSION

Turning to sales, Mr. Gordon said International Harvester in the five years between 1929 and 1932 averaged 42.5 per cent of all Canadian sales; Massey-Harris, 22.8, and Cockshutt, 9 per cent. Sales for all companies fell from $57,574,000 in 1929, to $12,-824,000 in 1932.

Examination of comparative figures on production for the last years from 1924 to 1932 inclusive disclosed this had increased from $14,940,926 in 1924 to a peak of $60,288,026 in 1929. Since then the drop had been precipitated to a figure of $6,808,733 in 1932.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—Suggestions to place the canning industry on its feet and brighten the economic outlook of fruit and vegetable growers were placed before the royal commission on mass buying here yesterday by W. R. Drynan, general manager of Canadian Canners, Ltd., Hamilton, Ont.

Under the Drynan plan, already submitted to the Dominion, Ontario and Quebec governments, a publicity fund would be built up to stimulate the sale of canned tomatoes. The Dominion would be asked to donate the 6 per cent sales tax on tomatoes, about $152,000 a year, and the fund would be increased to $250,000 by donations from canners, can manufacturers and others interested. It would be used in an effort to induce every Canadian family to buy two tins more of tomatoes monthly.

Mr. Drynan said Canadian Canners were willing to prepare a mutually satisfactory contract between themselves and the growers. They were willing also to increase prices where possible. A council of canners and growers would be established to settle differences of opinion.

The last suggestion of the canning company would be crop hazard insurance for growers through a fund raised by the government. "Of course, Mr. Drynan added, "we would be willing to share in it."

The insurance would be similar to wheat insurance on the prairies.

EXPLANATIONS

The anticipated fight over figures relating to profits of Canadian Canners Ltd. of Hamilton, Ont., disappeared amid apologies and withdrawals.

Three officials of the company, Avern Pardoe, president; W. R. Drynan, general manager, and Percy Croucher, secretary-treasurer, were questioned on the closing of canning plants. The company owns eighty plants in all parts of the country, but particularly in Ontario. In the peak year of 1929, for instance, thirty-three were closed.

Business had been bad in recent years, Mr. Drynan said and it had been necessary to close uneconomical plants or plants where crops were poor.

Mr. Drynan said the plants now closed might be opened this year or next.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Trade Minister, protested against the operating plants being saddled with the costs of carrying the non-operating plants. "I believe the investors should bear the losses in carrying these plants, not labor or the farmers," he said.

That had been done, Mr. Pardoe insisted. A sum of $2,000,000 had been taken from the company's depreciation account.

"Did you do that," Mr. Stevens asked, "to protect the price of your stock on the market in which you and others were dealing?"

"Absolutely not."

ultimate fate of the Saar—whether it is to remain under the League, join France or go back to Germany. The British felt strongly that it would be to the advantage of all parties if Germany was represented during the council's consideration of the question in which she is so vitally interested.

Results of the Saar voting will be announced in Sarbruecken and in Geneva on Monday night.

TROOP REPORTS

Vienna, Jan. 10—Italian troops are being concentrated along the Austrian frontier, ready to act immediately should German Nazis attempt a "putsch" in this country following the Saar plebiscite, it was reported reliably to-day.

Both the Austrian and Italian governments are taking extreme precautions, fearful of what may follow an expected German victory in the plebiscite.

Hundreds of known Nazis and their sympathizers were arrested in Tyrol province, adjoining the German frontier. Police and auxiliary forces of the province, where Nazism is still strong, were ordered under a state of alarm from Saturday until Tuesday of next week in anticipation of demonstrations.

Italy has duplicated its action of last summer when it sent troops to the frontier following the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss during a Nazi "putsch."

WINTER MANOEUVRES

Under a pretext of winter manoeuvres, it was learned, Italian garrisons from the entire Verona district have been concentrated along the Brenner-Brixen line.

Fascist militia formerly stationed there have been withdrawn and replaced by regular soldiers.

Residents of Linz said eighty trucks filled with armed men from southern Austria passed through there yesterday and that the Austrian government feared Nazis now exiled in Germany would attempt an invasion after Sunday's vote in the Saar.

NOT LIKED

The fact that Italy is now firmly acting as a defender of Austria's interests against Germany is not favorably regarded by many of the Tyrolese population. They have not forgotten that during the Great War they fought against Italy and contend their brothers in the southern Tyrol are suffering under Italian domination.

Even the Tyrolese Heimwehr (Fascist home guard), the rank and file of which is otherwise supporting the present Fascist Austrian government, is opposed to a close Austro-Italian friendship and their leaders have had their hands full keeping down radical tendencies against Italy.

Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Laval of France have just completed agreements designed to ensure Austria's independence. Both countries fear an Austro-German union, the goal of Nazis.

NO EXTRA MEASURES

Rome, Jan. 10.—A government spokesman said to-day latest information from Vienna and Berlin led officials to believe there was only a slight possibility of a Nazi "putsch" in Austria immediately after the Saar plebiscite.

Consequently, he said, no extra precautions had been taken by Italian troops along the Austrian border.

Tarzan of the Apes

In the higher land that the tribe frequented was a little lake. Here it was that Tarzan first saw his face in the clear, still waters of its bosom. He was appalled! He turned red with shame as he compared his face and naked body with his more fortunate brother's.

So intent was he upon this personal appraisement of his features that he did not hear the parting of the tall grass behind him as a great lady pushed itself stealthily through the jungle. Not thirty paces behind the two she crouched—Sabor, the huge lioness—lashing her tail.

Cautiously she moved a great padded paw forward, noiselessly placing it before she lifted the next. Then she advanced—a great cat preparing to spring upon its prey. An instant she paused. Then with an awful scream—voiced to freeze her victim in a paralysis of terror—she sprang!

The little ape crouched trembingly. Not so Tarzan, the man-child. Before him lay the deep waters o f the little lake—behind him certain death. Quickly glancing to the deep waters of the little lake—behind him certain death. But before the great beast had covered half her leap, Tarzan felt the cold waters close above him.

Rapidly he moved his hands and feet, then his nose was above water. Sabor was intently watching. Tarzan raised his voice in the tribal call of defiance. Presently fifty great apes swung rapidly toward the scene. Then Sabor disappeared quietly into the brush and Tarzan swam happily to dry land.

DEAR MISS DIX—What do you think about giving children an allowance? PARENTS.

Answer—I am strong for it. It is just as important to know how to spend money as it is to know how to make it, and the young cannot be too early instructed in this art which will affect their whole future lives.

Half the waste and extravagance in the world is the direct result of people's never having been taught how to handle money. This is true of men, but it is especially true of women, who often ruin their husbands through sheer ignorance of this subject.

Of course this is not so much the case now, when so many girls go into business and earn their own money. They are among the shrewdest of financiers and what they can get out of a dollar and the lengths to which they can make their pay envelopes go would make the eyes of the secretary of the treasury pop out of his head with awe and wonder.

But far different is the domestic girl who has never earned a penny in her life and never had more than carfare in her purse. Mother has bought all of her clothes, or else she has had them charged on a bill, and she has never known what she was spending or what anything cost. She has not learned to budget an income because she never had any definite sum of money that she had to make cover her expenses.

Hence when she gets married she treats her husband's income as if it were an Aladdin's Lamp that she had only to rub to get baskets of gold. Even a moderate salary seems to her inexhaustible. She throws away money as if it grew on trees. She wastes money because she does not know how to spend, and before she knows it she has swamped him in debts.

It is because our prosperity and our happiness depend upon our knowing how to spend and how to save, how to proportion our expenses and balance our incomes; how to do without little things in order that we may have big things, that it is so important to begin inculcating this knowledge in a child while it is still very young. Every child should have its own allowance by the time it is six years old and it should be made to live within it, without any excuse being thrown up by indulgent parents and relatives. If it spends it all the first day, then it must do without the things it wants the remainder of the week, for in that way alone can the lesson be taught that if we are wasters we are bound to be wasters.

I know a wise father who, it seems to me, has worked out the problem of allowances for children better than any one else I know. Starting at six, each of his children is given an allowance that is increased every year. This must cover certain specific things and all their little treats. Each child has its own savings bank and in this a certain percentage of the money must go as soon as it is paid the child. This is to teach it the habit of saving and that it must look out for the future.

The older children's allowance is increased to cover their clothes and they are permitted to buy these under a certain direction from the mother, but if the fancy of one is caught by some inappropriate garment and it insists upon having it, he or she is permitted to buy it, but is made to wear it, no matter how much he or she comes to hate it. Thus is inculcated a lesson in careful buying.

Often the children want more money than their allowance. This is never given them as a present, but they are permitted to earn it. Some task is always kept whereby the child can make money by working for it. John wants 50 cents. All right. He can sweep the sidewalk or bring in coal or scrub a floor or mend something that is broken. Mary wants a dollar. She can wash the dishes or darn socks or take care of the baby. Thus are the children made to realize that if you want more money you can get it by work. A salutary lesson that no youngster will ever forget. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am very much in love with a girl, but we are so maladjusted to each other that I doubt the wisdom of marrying her. I am a Phi Beta Kappa. She is not at all bookish or of the student type. I enjoy writing letters—long, newsy and affectionate ones—when we are parted. She detests writing and her letters are short and uninteresting. Also her family is not what it should be in many ways and I would be ashamed to have them in my home and have them meet my people and friends. Of course, one does not marry his fiancee's family, but she is naturally attached to her people and there have already been many tense and unpleasant situations between us. She also lacks poise and calmness and is nervous and easily excited and seems to have no sort of spiritual insight or perception. Yet I love her, but am doubtful about marriage. What do you think? KIRK A.

Answer—I should certainly advise against it. I do not think that a marriage between two people so fundamentally different in type and character would have a chance of success.

What you feel for this girl is merely a physical attraction. That will wear off in time and when that is gone you will have nothing left. Of course, there are those that contend that sex congeniality is the most important thing in marriage, but this is not true. It is important. No denying that. But the thing that counts in the long run is mental and spiritual congeniality, being interested in the same things, being able to think the same thoughts, seeing things from the same angle.

Do you ever wonder why so many men are unfaithful to their wives? Do you wonder why there are so many men who are bored with domesticity and who regard an evening at home as a punishment? They are the men who have made the same kind of foolish marriage that you are contemplating. They are the men who have married girls to whom they were physically attracted, but who had no mental or spiritual correspondence with them. Pretty girls with few brains and little culture, who made wives who were incapable of entertaining and amusing their husbands or of understanding and sympathizing with them, and of whom their husbands tired when their good looks were gone.

The man who says that when he marries a girl he does not marry her family not only stultifies himself but he does a cruel and unjust thing to his wife. Every man marries not only his wife's immediate family but all of her forbears for generations in the past, and he wishes that ancestry on his children.

There is no getting away from that. It is one of the fixed facts of life. So if you do not approve of a girl's people; if you do not want your children to inherit their characteristics, do not marry her. And no man has a right to marry a woman and expect her to give up her family for him. She loves her relatives even as he does his. She is bound to them by every tie of affection and duty, and she would be an ingrate if she shut her door in their faces just because her husband did not consider them presentable. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—How can you make your wife trust you again after she knows you have been untrue to her and have spent on other women the money which she earned? We are getting up in years and my flirting days are over and I would like for her to feel toward me now as she did when we were married. P. E. W.

Answer—No miracle can restore a wife's faith in the husband who has betrayed her. She may forgive but she never forgets and she never sees him again as a Prince Charming.

You had something fine and beautiful and you dishonored it and trampled it into the mud and you must pay the price of your folly. DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 1935

Adverse stars rule strongly to-day, according to astrology. It is a week under which to think twice before making any decisive step in business or domestic plans.

Much unrest among workers is forecast, for there is a tendency to wrong thinking in regard to economic issues. Farmers may suffer losses through inclement weather.

Aviation matters will receive much attention, especially among legislators. There is a dark cloud of inspiring the wish of casting down instead of lifting up politics that affect government policies.

In small groups as well as large assemblies great purposes will be active, it is forecast. Difficult interests will conflict with alarmists' minds.

According to a London astrologer Adolph Hitler has the sun powerfully placed in his horoscope which means increase of power along every possible line, but there is in a place that indicates great strength, military-minded associates. Against doubts such are predicted.

Japan's emperor has the favorable of Saturn for his dynasty. Miss Miller, in her an omen of danger.

Mountain but the prophecy of reforms and changes for the future.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of activity. A tendency toward entanglement is foretold. An activity that may affect the business of certain men is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be adventurous. Subjects of this sign usually are able to have their own way.

Bayard Taylor, writer and traveler, was born on this day, 1825. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Sir John Alexander MacDonald, Canadian statesman, 1815.
